WALLSTREET QUOTED STOCK VALUES DROP OVER BILLION

One of Most Sweeping Reactions in History of New York Stock Exchange Follows Rediscount Boost

PRICES CARRIED DOWN 5 TO 46 POINTS

Market Rebounds in Early Afternoon and Then Succumbs to Renewal of Selling Pressure.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The unexpected increase from 5 to 6 percent in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate brought about a flood of selling which sent stock prices crashing 5 to 46 points in today's stock market, wiping out more than $1,000,000,000 in quoted values. Two rallies developed during the session, one shortly after the opening and the other in the early afternoon, but they failed to hold and final quotations generally were around the lowest of the day. The decline was one of the worst ever experienced in Wall street.

The higher rediscount rate brought about no immediate change in the credit situation, call money holding steady at 8 per cent all day while time money rates held firm around the 9 per cent level. Dealers in bankers' acceptances did not reduce the rates despite the reduction in the Federal Reserve banks buying rate from 5 1/4 to 5 1/2 per cent. Easier call money rates are booked for next week.

Business news continued favorable, with another batch of excellent earnings reports making their appearance, but no attention was paid to it as credit conditions were the all absorbing topics in speculative circles.

Face St. Down.

Trading started off at a terrific pace, but died down as the session progressed. Total sales passed the 5,000,000-share mark for the first time since last March, but were far below the record of 13,467,750 shares established on March 26.

Laclede Gas broke 46 points, Commercial Solvents dropped 33 1/2 and rallied 3 1/2 and Auburn Auto fell 26 1/2 and rallied nearly 7. General Electric closed 19 points lower and International Silver, Brooklyn Union Gas, American & Foreign Power, American Power and Light, American Water Works, American Telephone, North American, Warren Broc, and Westinghouse Electric all closed 10 to nearly 16 points lower.

U. S. Steel common, which set a new high record only yesterday at 213 1/2, fell 7 1/2 points to 213 1/2 and closed at the bottom. It had sold 217 1/2 earlier in the day after having opened at 216.

Rails yielded with the industrials, with the so-called investment stocks showing the largest declines. Atchison, New York Central, Rock Island, Union Pacific and Delaware & Hudson all closed 5 to nearly 10 points lower.

String cables sagged to around the "gold import" point and most of the other European exchanges turned heavy.

Similar declines took place in some of the other leading securities markets in the country.

The increase in the rate, which coincided with a gain of $60,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans to a new high record above $400,000,000, caught Wall street completely by surprise. While the recent action of the market, with spectacular advances in many of the public utility and high-priced industrial stocks, had drawn warnings from conservative bankers and commission houses, but few traders were prepared for such a sweeping decline.

Increase Not Anticipated.

There had been a rather general feeling in the financial district that an increase in the Federal Reserve rate, previously characterized as "the last resort" of the Federal Reserve Board by Chairman Young, would be preceded by a higher rate by the Bank of England, which has suffered a serious decline in its gold reserves as a result of heavy shipments to France. Consequently, when the London rate was announced as unchanged yesterday, no increase was looked for here.

Blocks of 5000 to 25,000 shares changed hands at frequent intervals.

Insurance Firms to Refund $4,000,000, But Policy-Holders Must Sue to Get $8,000,000

Stock Underwriters of Fire, Lightning, Hail and Wind Damage Yield to State and Cut Rates as Ordered.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 9.—Stock fire insurance companies of Missouri today admitted, under protest, the power of the State to regulate the rates and the reasonableness of a 10 per cent reduction in fire, lightning, hail and windstorm insurance rates ordered by the State in 1922, which has been in litigation since that time, by filing notice of their acceptance of the reduction, effective immediately. They propose, however, to date the reduction back only to Feb. 1, 1928.

The move involves all of the 191 companies in the State, two of which previously had put the reduction into effect.

$8,000,000 Overcharge Not Settled.

While this action, which is being accepted by the State Insurance Department, puts the reduction into effect on present and future business, and assures refunding of 10 per cent overcharges made by the companies since Feb. 1, 1928, it still leaves unsettled the liability of the companies for approximately $8,000,000 or more in such overcharges made from 1922 to 1928. The companies, through their action today, are admitting their obligation to refund the overcharges made since Feb. 1, 1928, but not for excess premiums collected from the beginning of the litigation, to make the refunds if the reduction order were sustained in the highest courts, which has been done. A legal question exists which makes it doubtful that the other companies, which did not sign that stipulation, are liable for refunds back of 1928.

Policy Holders May Have to Sue. The State Insurance Department estimates the companies have collected from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 in excess premiums from the approximately 1,000,000 policy holders in Missouri since 1922, as the companies which stipulated the reduction order, to Feb. 1, 1928. This is especially true of 114 of the companies which stipulated the reduction order, to Feb. 1, 1928.

SNOOK RE-ENACTS KILLING, LAWYER POSING AS VICTIM

Under Vigorous Cross-Examination, Veterinarian Elaborates Details of Fight With Woman.

DENIES SAYING HE CUT HER THROAT

Defendant Repudiates His Confession but Admits Committing Crime to Protect Family.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Under a relentless cross-examination, James H. Snook, veterinarian, again told the jury in his first degree murder trial of the intimate and tragic details of his fight with Thorla Hix, 24-year-old medical student, he killed June 13.

Prosecutor John J. Chester Jr., who started the cross-examination late yesterday, picked it up with the opening of court today and soon had the former Ohio State veterinary instructor deep in the story of the fatal night. Chester demanded an elaboration of the account told yesterday in direct examination and at one time assumed the role of Miss Hix while he and the defendant demonstrated to the jury just what happened at the time of the killing and immediately before.

Snook repeated his denial that he recalled cutting the girl's throat, the fact on which the State depends to substantiate its charge of premeditation which is necessary for a first degree murder conviction.

Denies He Cut Her Throat. Chester charged Snook with having admitted during the questioning that preceded his arrest that he had cut the young woman's throat "to relieve her suffering" after he had beaten her head with a hammer.

Snook denied it and Chester replied:

"Then if we say you did, we are liars."

"Yes, you are," Snook responded.

The prosecutor, in his cross-examination, followed closely to the questions put to Snook while he was being held for examination. He made no attempt to base his examination directly on Snook's confession as such but held his questions to the conversations between the defendant and the city and county officers who obtained the confession.

"The things he said to me and scooped up the money from the counter and the cash register. He had about $110. This isn't all," he said. "We know you've got big money and we want it." I tried to tell him he had it all but he jabbed the shotgun against my ribs and cursed. I led him to the back room and handed over the rest of my money, which I had hidden in a drawer. In all it was about $2900.

"Then the leader called to the other fellows, 'Come here. Let's go out the back way.' They ran to the back door but they couldn't get it open. The roundhouse men started to rush outside and the robbers came back and elbowed their way through the front door.

"I got my pistol from the shelf and followed them. They were running out when I fired a shot at the man with the shotgun who was in the rear. He stopped, turned around and fired at me. Then he followed the other men around the corner."

At City Hospital, Peckhaus' wounds were said to be slight. The boy's condition was diagnosed as serious but it was expected he would recover without lasting injuries. His mother, Mrs. Audrey Barger, had recently rented a store adjoining Novak's place and was preparing to open a restaurant.

No witnesses were found who saw the robbers after they rounded the corner. It is supposed they had an automobile parked in the neighborhood.

"Do you admit that you killed her?"

"Yes, I admit killing her to protect my wife and baby and myself."

The State concluded its cross-examination and turned the witness back to the defense in the middle of the afternoon after the defendant had been answering his questions since almost the same hour yesterday. Snook had been on the stand about two and a half days when Chester finished the cross-examination.

Snook was then excused from the stand. The defense immediately began the presentation of testimony by medical experts in an effort to show that the hammer wounds might have caused the severing of her jugular vein.

The prosecutor put the flat question: "Do you admit that you killed her?"

The Federal forces were under command of Jonah T. Hagglove, chief boatswain's mate. While patrolling the river they sighted a speed boat towing a loaded rowboat coming out from behind one of the small islands off the Ecorse shores.

Hagglove hailed the three men in the speed boat, ordering them to halt. A volley of shots came his answer. Hagglove and the two fastest gunners under his command emptied their pistols twice before the runners escaped toward the Canadian shore.

The robber and two accomplices, who had robbed Novik while a crowd of Missouri Pacific roundhouse employees who had come to cash paychecks stood with raised hands. When they fled from the store, Novik fired two shots after them with a pistol. The man with the shotgun stopped, turned and fired point-blank at Novik from a distance of about 100 feet.

The boy, Charles Berger, 7, 2927 Chouteau avenue, who had been playing in the street ran in front of Novik and received a number of slugs in his legs. John C. Peckhaus, 4001 Cote Brilliant avenue, who was passing, was cut on the forehead by slugs.

WHY ROCK ISLAND DIDN'T HELP WITH LINDELL CROSSING

No Way Found to Relieve Road of Liability When It Abandons Western Entrance.

STAND EXPLAINED BY VICE-PRESIDENT

Ordinance Providing for Construction of Viaduct Jointly With Wabash
Lapses Tomorrow.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—L. C. Fritch, vice president in charge of operation of the Rock Island lines, explained today the position of the Rock Island regarding the Union-Lindell grade crossing elimination, planned by St. Louis city officials to be accomplished at the same time with the Forest Park section of River des Peres sewer.

He said that he and law officers of the Rock Island had tried to co-operate with the city under the ordinance, the provisions of which will lapse tomorrow for want of formal acceptance by the Wabash and Rock Island roads. The effort had failed, he said, because of inability to devise a plan which would relieve the Rock Island from liability in case it should abandon its present western entrance to St. Louis.

The Rock Island expects to abandon the present western entrance," he said, "and to use the Terminal belt line for all its trains, as it now uses that route for most of its freight trains. But this plan will require both the sanction of our board of directors and the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Because of the short time allowed under the ordinance, which Mayor Miller signed July 10, these requirements have not yet been met.

Wabash Primarily Concerned.

"I conferred with the Mayor and President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service at the Mayor's office July 23, and Mr. Kinsey and Engineer Bowen were here Aug. 1. I told them that while the Rock Island did not own the tracks or of the Wabash tracks through Forest Park, we would accept the ordinance if the acceptance could be put on a contingent basis. That is, if the Rock Island stayed it should pay a part of the cost and if it left it should not have to pay. Legal counsel for the city and in our offices worked on this, but no plan was reached that fully protected us.

"Mr. Kinsey was to take the matter up with the Wabash, and no doubt did so, but we received no word from the Wabash. The Wabash is the road primarily concerned. We are just the tenant of the Wabash, using its tracks under a court decree issued more than 40 years ago.

The Rock Island board of directors will not meet until next month, and after the board's approval of the plan for a new entrance to St. Louis it might take the Interstate Commerce Commission several months to dispose of the matter.

Suggests New Ordinance.

"My view, and that of our legal department, is that the city of St. Louis should pass a new ordinance providing for acceptance by the Wabash only. This could be so framed as to make the Rock Island liable for a part of the cost if it remains in the West End. I thoroughly approve of the city's desire to get this needed improvement made now, while the River Des Peres work is under way."

The route now used for Rock Island freight traffic, and intended to be used by its passenger trains, connects with the Terminal at a point between Lackland and Olive stations, and reaches Union Station over the elevated tracks. The Rock Island has but two passenger trains a day in each direction, and Vice President Fritch said this traffic did not seem to justify keeping up the West End entrance, in view of the cost, not only of the road's share in the $480,000 Lindell-Union improvement, but on the future grade separations at De Baliviere avenue, Skinker and Big Bend crossings, where the Rock Island would have to bear the entire cost.

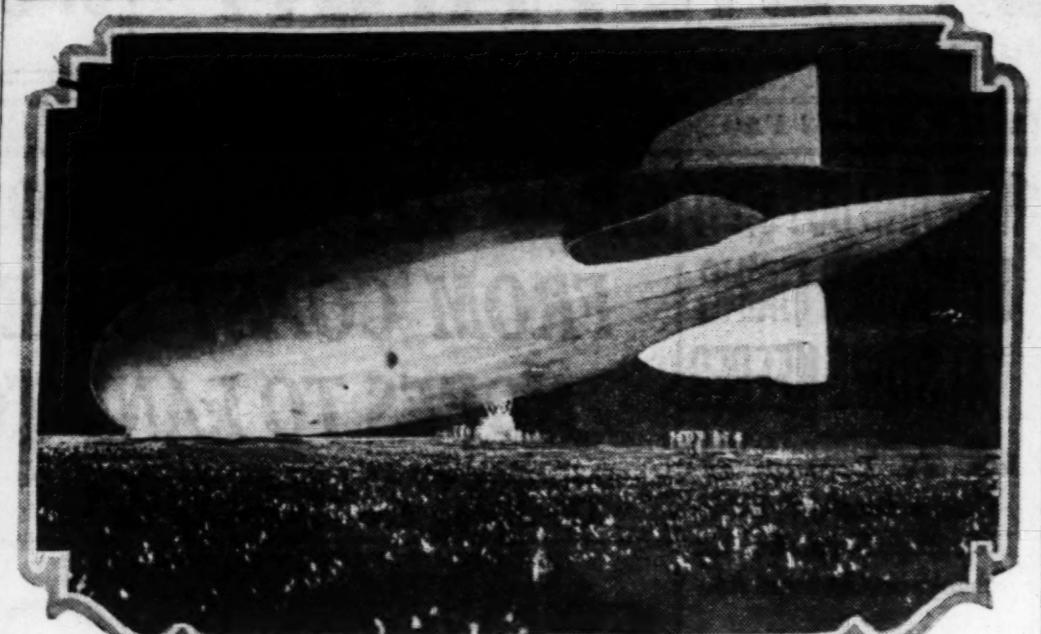

Wabash Blames Uncertain Attitude of Rock Island.

Nat E. Brown, vice president and general counsel of the Wabash, said that the uncertain attitude of the Rock Island had made it impossible for the Wabash to accept the Lindell-Union ordinance in time to keep it from lapsing to-morrow.

"If the Rock Island were to remain," he said, "we would be ready to proceed with the city's plan, and we would let the State Public Service Commission settle any difference between us and the Rock Island as to allotment of the cost. On the other hand, if the Rock Island could tell us definitely that it was leaving, we would try to go ahead alone, in co-operation with the city. But the present situation is one of uncertainty."

Brown mentioned the necessity values in the early trading, with initial declines in most issues ranging from 2 to 15 points. As soon as the first flurry of selling had subsided, a brisk rally developed which sent several stocks 1 to 10 points above their opening quotations. The buying quickly dried up, however, and a fresh wave of liquidation swept over the market at midday which carried U. S. Steel common, Westinghouse, Atchison, and many other industrial and railroad leaders below their opening quotations.

A Secondary Reaction.

This "secondary reaction" undermined speculative confidence as several of the large commission houses had advised their customers that the opening quotations probably would remain as the low of the day, if not for some time to come.

Directors of the Kansas City and Philadelphia Federal Reserve banks made no change in reserve count rates.

No announcement was forthcoming from the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank directors, although it was intimated that authority for an increase to 6 per cent might be given by the Federal Reserve Board after the close.

Previous reports of New York and Chicago banks for a higher rediscount rate had been refuted. The action of the Reserve Bank in reducing its buying rate on bankers' acceptances 1/2 of 1 per cent was regarded as an indication that it plans immediately to come to the aid of the bull market in order to facilitate the movement of crops. This decrease, however, was not once followed up by leading acceptance dealers this morning.

All leading brokerage houses instructed their employees to report for work an hour or more earlier than usual this morning with the result that the streets of the financial district were crowded with hurrying workers as early as 8 o'clock. Downtown telephones and exchanges were swamped with calls of customers placing orders and of brokers calling for instructions and demanding margin on weakened speculative accounts.

So great was the rush to sell that many specialists were compelled to refuse to accept stop loss orders, particularly on odd lots. In the case of the highly speculative issues, opening orders were bunched and executed in one block, several of these running from 5000 to 25,000 shares.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago made no announcement concerning the rediscount rate after their meeting today. The buying rate on bankers' acceptances was reduced from 3 1/2 to 3 1/4 per cent, in line with the change at New York.

CHIEF OF CHICAGO SUBURB SLAIN BY HIGHWAY POLICE

Theodore Schutte of Elmwood Shot in Roadhouse After Terrorizing Guests With Pistol.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Chief of Police Theodore Schutte, 45 years old, of Elmwood Park, Ill., a suburb, was shot and killed early today by county highway police who had been summoned to suppress a disturbance in a roadhouse across the street from their station.

Schutte, police reported, was drunk and threatened the highway policemen when they entered the place.

Eight policemen from the Morton Grove station answered the riot call from the San Souci roadhouse across the street. They found a crowd of men and women huddled in one end of the dining room.

A second after they entered, Schutte, carrying a pistol in his hand, stepped from a side room. He raised the weapon towards the highway policemen, but a volley of shots felled him before he could fire.

William Lescun, owner of the roadhouse, told police Schutte frequently had come to the place drunk and created disturbance. This morning, he declared, Schutte had fired a bullet into the floor, after forcing the guests to one end of the room.

PORTRUSH, England, Aug. 9.—Sister Celestine, acting Mother Superior of St. Patrick's Convent on Hayling Island, was killed today in a fire which started in the convent.

Sister Celestine, after discovering the fire, directed the evacuation of the convent, then returned to the flaming building to make sure nobody had been forgotten. She was overcome by smoke and was found dead.

The convent was used as a home for the poor children of London.

amounts involved in their individual claims.

The notice of acceptance of the rates was received by Superintendent Thompson today from the Missouri Inspection Bureau, a rating bureau with which all of the companies are affiliated, and which rates schedules for the companies.

It is the official source of rates schedules for the companies. The bureau has offices at 1330 Pierce Building, St. Louis.

Superintendent Thompson said he considered that the filing of the notice put the reduced rates into effect immediately, on all classes of fire, lightning, hail and windstorm insurance written by the stock insurance companies, without waiting for filing of individual schedules.

Acceptance Under Protest...

The notice, from Waterworth & Terry, managers of the Missouri inspection bureau, follows:

On behalf of each of the subscribers to Missouri Inspection Bureau, we do under protest that of the Superintendent of Insurance Department of Missouri of date Oct. 9, 1922, ordering a reduction in rates subsequently designated to apply as of Feb. 1, 1928, to all classes of fire, lightning, hail and windstorm insurance, is an unconstitutional invasion of the rights of each of such subscribers guaranteed to it by the fourteenth amendment of the Federal Constitution, hereby making invalid under such protest, of a reduction in rates of 10 per cent upon fire, lightning, hail and windstorm insurance upon all classes as of Feb. 1, 1928, except automobile fire.

William Lescun, owner of the roadhouse, told police Schutte frequently had come to the place drunk and created disturbance. This morning, he declared, Schutte had fired a bullet into the floor, after forcing the guests to one end of the room.

What State Is Likely to Do.

Thompson said it was the position of the department that they should make refunds back to Nov. 15, 1922, but that the question probably would have to be settled in the courts.

Dispute Over State Order.

The department has contended,

however, that it was necessary for the classification order to be issued and that it was a mere formality, as the stipulation entered into between the department and companies, to which the rate reduction applied. Attorneys for the companies have contended the original order of Nov. 15, 1922, did not become effective until that classification order was issued.

Under that stipulation the companies agreed not to contest validity of the law under which he remake refunds if the order was sustained by a court of last resort, and agreed on other points as to conduct of the rate litigation.

Of the 191 companies now in the State, 114 signed that stipulation.

Forty-one other companies did not sign the stipulation, and 26 companies, no parties to the suit, have entered business in the State since the suits began.

The law provided that when a reduction in rates was ordered by the Insurance Superintendent, the companies had 30 days in which to specify what classes of insurance it would be applied to, and if they failed the superintendent would issue an order specifying the classes.

The State Supreme Court in 1928 sustained the reduction order, and the companies appealed to the United States Supreme Court, which dismissed the appeal.

The companies later filed injunction suits in Federal District Court in Kansas City, to restrain enforcement of the reduction order, and attacked constitutionality of the law under which the order was issued.

ROBIN ENDURANCE FLYERS LAND AT COLUMBUS, O. PORT

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Dick Jackson and Forest O'Brien, world champion endurance flyers, arrived at Port Columbus here today for a refueling demonstration in their St. Louis Robin plane.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9.—Dick Jackson and Forest O'Brien left here at 8:45 a. m. today for Columbus, O.

For the second consecutive day, the holders of the world record for sustained flight gave a refueling demonstration over Bowman Field.

The refueling ship was manned by Maj. C. Roy Wassall and F. V. Chaffee.

The demonstration followed a flight to Camp Henry Knox, Ky. There was a motor tour of the city and a Rotary Club luncheon in their honor.

Wife Slayer, 75, Gets Life.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Aug. 9.—Fred Erb, 75 years old, who shot and killed his 75-year-old wife as she slept yesterday, in order, he explained, to end her suffering, was sentenced to life imprisonment today. He pleaded guilty of murder.

Three Men on Guard.

Gus Busekaki, the station owner, and two friends, Joseph Vitale and Vito Catalano, both service car drivers, were on guard, ready to repel unfriendly invaders. They were any too pleased to see police, but even police were prepared to "competitors"—now that service car competition has reached its present violent stage.

Busekaki, Vitale and Catalano were arrested for questioning about the murder of their friend, De Blasi.

If they would, they could give important information, police declared. Brothers had been extorting money from service car drivers and had quarreled with De Blasi the day before the killing.

OFFERS POLICE PROTECTION

FROM CREEOSOTE THROWERS

Acting Chief Acts After Wife of Police Sergeant Suffers Burns When Asleep.

Acting Chief of Police Glassco, taking cognizance of the acts last night of persons who smeared creosote on newly-painted dwellings and who threw an open can of creosote into the home of Police Sergeant Girard Dorse, offered today to furnish police protection to home owners who have had their dwellings painted and anticipate labor troubles.

Mrs. Patricia Dorsey, wife of the Police Sergeant, was struck on the back by a can of creosote thrown in her bedroom window. The contents spilled over her, causing painful burns.

Creosote was smeared on the freshly painted porches and windows at $172, $174 and $176 California Avenue last night and on the fresh paint of an apartment at $35 to $75. "Collectors" were stationed at both ends of the routes.

One driver, who at first refused to pay and was threatened with death, compromised by paying $15, according to Kaiser.

Kaiser, Kaiser continued, acted as financier for one group of drivers, financing time payments on autos and selling them gasoline and oil. This group, Kaiser charged, had been accused of "axing" competitors.

Too much competition is at the root of the present trouble, investigators declare.

Veteran drivers, who take pride in their work, say a number of shiftless characters, some with police records, have horned in on the procession.

Some have acquired big cars from used car dealers, others have gone in for shiny new ones. Rates have been reduced for certain hours during the day. Good-natured rivalry has grown into bitter quarreling, threat-passing and face-punching.

All has not been quiet within the service car drivers' union. De Blasi, according to his relatives, recently led an insurgent group which quit the union and joined an independent drivers' association in which the dues are lower.

Two Others Arrested.

Since the killing of De Blasi police have arrested for questioning various men suspected of not attending strictly to their driving. It appears that most of these have been De Blasi's friends.

Besides the three men taken in custody yesterday at the Washington Avenue filling station, two others, Michael Morello and Jimmy De George, were arrested elsewhere.

On the other hand, William Cronin—"Red" to his friends—secretary of the drivers' union, was questioned Wednesday. It seems the Cadillac used by De Blasi's son bore Cronin's license number. Cronin explained briefly that his car was the union's car and "several of the boys at headquarters" took it whenever they needed it. He had no idea, he said.

3 HELD, WEAPONS SEIZED IN RAID ON SERVICE DRIVERS

Owner of Filling Station, Their Headquarters, and Two Others Questioned in Murder.

ALDEN KNOWLEDGE OF DE BLASI KILLING

Too Much Competition Thought to Be Cause of Warfare Among Chauffeurs.

THE BUSINESS OF DRIVING A SERVICE CAR, ORDINARILY PEACEFUL OR EVEN MONOTONOUS, IS RAPIDLY DEVELOPING, IN ST. LOUIS, INTO A TWO-FISTED JOB, WHAT WITH A MURDER, THREATS TO KILL, ARRESTS, RAIDS AND CONFISCATION OF DEADLY WEAPONS.

Last Friday, for instance, after a hard day's work taking customers to the ball park and the West End, John De Blasi, 18-year-old service car driver, went home, expecting to keep a "date." Other plans had been made for him by enemies and he was shot to death in an alley behind his home, 5051 Delmar boulevard.

Since then some drivers figuratively have been keeping one hand on the wheel and one within reaching distance of a weapon. This state of affairs was illustrated yesterday afternoon when police raided the headquarters of the St. Louis Service Car Drivers' Association, at the filling station at the southeast corner of Twentieth street and Washington avenue, seizing a riot gun, two revolvers and a large quantity of shells.

Three Men on Guard.

Gus Busekaki, the station owner, and two friends, Joseph Vitale and Vito Catalano, both service car drivers, were on guard, ready to repel unfriendly invaders. They were any too pleased to see police, but even police were prepared to "competitors"—now that service car competition has reached its present violent stage.

Busekaki, Vitale and Catalano were arrested for questioning about the murder of their friend, De Blasi.

Brothers was accused at the inquest by John Prosperito, a service car driver, who testified that he was with De Blasi and saw him shot down by brothers. Prosperito declared brothers had been extorting money from service car drivers and had quarreled with De Blasi the day before the killing.

The woman entered the store carrying an envelope on which she said she wanted to send a friend $20 by special delivery and asked Hoffman to give her a $20 bill for that amount in change. Hoffman took a $20 bill from the cash register and began to count the change the woman had placed on him. He found it was short 50 cents.

"Oh, I've already put your bill in the envelope," the woman said. "I'm so sorry. If you wait a minute I'll get that other 50 cents. You keep this until I come back."

The woman gave Hoffman her change. It contained three pieces of blank paper.

SWISS AVIATORS UNREPORTED IN PARIS-TO-LISBON FLIGHT

Authorities Apprehensive, as Kaiser, Tschopp and Luscher Are Interrogated.

By the Associated Press.

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 9.—Fears for the safety of three Swiss aviators who left here yesterday for Lisbon on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight to New York were felt by authorities at the air field today. Pilot Kaiser, Navigator Tschopp and Mechanic Luscher have been flying only since 1927.

Nothing has been heard of the three men since they left late yesterday afternoon for Lisbon, which they should have reached early this morning.

No radio station reported their passage or landing, and it was learned from Madrid that they had not been reported at Lisbon. Officials here hopefully assumed they had stopped in some small town for fuel or perhaps had been forced down in a place without adequate communications.

ST. LOUIS ORGANIZATION URGES TARIFF ON CEMENT SHIPMENTS

Building Material Dealers' Credit Body Asks Congressmen to Support Levy.

A resolution urging the Missouri delegation in Congress to support the proposed duty of 30 cents a barrel on cement, provided in the Hawley bill, and maintaining that this tariff would not increase market prices in the Middle Western agricultural states was adopted yesterday by the St. Louis Building Material Dealers' Credit and Statistical Association.

Louis A. Golderman, president of the association, declared cement produced in foreign markets never has entered the Western market because of heavy railroad freight charges. The resolution holds that misstatements have been circulated in order to deny the cement industry relief to which it is entitled.

JAMES R. CLARKE GETS 8 YEARS FOR FRAUD IN BANKING

Sentenced for Misuse of Mails on Accepting Full Blame for Failure of New York Depository.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—James Rae Clarke, senior partner in Clarke brothers' defunct private bank, was today sentenced to eight years in the Federal prison in Atlanta on his plea of guilty to a Federal indictment charging use of the mails to defraud.

Sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson and General Sessions Judge Cornelius F. Collins of the State courts, sitting jointly.

A crowd of angry depositors, led by a middle-aged woman, who screamed "You took my money!" chased Hudson Clarke Jr., one of the younger partners through the corridors of the Federal building today and forced him to seek refuge in a corner of the post office mail room.

While this was happening 30 more depositors, attending a public hearing before a referee, shook their fists and muttered imprecations at James Rae Clarke.

As Hudson Clarke entered the building and started up the stairs to the Federal Court an elderly woman recognized him and screamed and then the chase by fully 600 persons began. Clarke ran up to the second floor, and into the money order department of the Post Office, his face pale, he waited there, while the depositors continued to shout at him, until he was rescued by Post Office inspectors.

At the hearing James Rae Clarke aroused the wrath of the depositors when he admitted having given a $2900 bracelet and between $6000 and $7000 worth of jewels to a woman friend, whose name he offered to disclose to the lawyers but not for the public record.

Philip Clarke and John F. Buek, the other two members of the firm, pleaded guilty this afternoon before the Federal and State Judges to criminal indictments in both cases.

Depositors of the bank may have received 20 cents on a dollar, the Irving Trust Co. receivers announced today.

The closed bank's liabilities total $4,972,147.97, with the estimated deficit of $2,811,346.46, according to a new tabulation printed by the receivers.

The Clarke Brothers' Bank at the time of its failure had several thousand depositors representing the poorer classes, many of whom lost their life savings when it crashed.

Charles Streib, 6702 Minnesota Avenue, a well-dressed woman worked the envelope game on Louis Hoffman, 15-year-old clerk in the drug store at 6022 South Grand Boulevard, yesterday, and gave him six two-cent stamps in exchange for a $20 bill.

The woman entered the store carrying an envelope on which she said she wanted to send a friend $20 by special delivery and asked Hoffman to give her a $20 bill for that amount in change. Hoffman took a $20 bill from the cash register and began to count the change the woman had placed on him. He found it was short 50 cents.

"Oh, I've already put your bill in the envelope," the woman said. "I'm so sorry. If you wait a minute I'll get that other 50 cents. You keep this until I come back."

Count Mailly-Challons, World War Ace, Extensively Decorated by Government.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—The San Francisco Examiner says Gilles Mailly, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Marguerite Mailly of San Francisco and her divorced husband, Comte Anselmo Mailly-Challons, has inherited the title of his French father, who died in Paris, July 24.

Count Mailly-Challons, who also held the title of Prince de Lisle-Montreal, was said by the newspaper to have been a French "ace" in the World War, the recipient of every decoration the French Government could bestow.

During the war Mrs. Mailly, then Marguerite Morbilo, granddaughter of the late Adolph Sutro, San Francisco capitalist, was an ambulance driver. The marriage of Miss Morbilo and the Count of France followed a romance behind the lines.

The Examiner declared that the boy is legally the heir of Count Mailly-Challons, regardless of the fact that he is the son of the Count of France.

FRISCO LOCOMOTIVE SETS ENDURANCE MARK

Freight Engine Has Run 6082 Miles Without Overhauling —7350 Is Goal.

With a new locomotive endurance record safely marked up for rival railroads to shoot at, the Frisco Line's engine No. 4113 today is on its way to Birmingham aiming for a record of 7350 miles of continuous service without being stopped.

Since July 19 the 500,000-pound Mikado coal burner has had a fire roaring under her boiler, hauling fast freight between the two cities on a regular run. At 6 a. m. today it had been in continuous service for 495 hours without mechanical adjustment and had traveled 6082 miles. The former endurance record, 5500 miles, has been held by the Great Northern Railroad.

No. 4113, one of 65 of its type acquired by the Frisco in 1923, has been nicknamed "Forsythe's Robin" for D. L. Forsythe, general road foreman of equipment, who has been living and sleeping with the locomotive for three weeks. Forsythe sleeps and prepares his own meals in a caboose behind the locomotive, supervises the regular crews that operate it, and keeps a detailed record of its performance.

Frisco officers insist that the performance is not a "stunt," but a serious investigation to determine the endurance of a locomotive. Usually locomotives are sent to the shop every 125 miles, fires are extinguished and flues and boilers cleaned. Economies could be effected, it is pointed out, if this point were extended without damage to the equipment.

No. 4113's performance has aroused considerable interest among railroad executives throughout the country and numerous requests for information have been received at the Frisco offices here. Forsythe, a veteran engineer of 41 years' experience, intends to prepare a detailed technical report of his findings when the locomotive is shopped in Kansas City next week at the end of its fifth round trip.

A sixth trip to Birmingham is not contemplated because a Federal law prohibits the use of a locomotive more than 30 days without shop inspection.

ARSON CHARGED IN BURNING OF MINER'S BOWERY THEATER

Owners Arrested When Tapers and Oil-Soaked Paper Are Found in Building.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Four men and a boy were arrested last night as the result of Fire Chief Marshal Brophy's investigation of the fire which early yesterday wrecked Miner's Bowery Theater, the middle of a bungalow, and damaged tenements in the rear of the structure.

The prisoners are Anthony Ferranti, 41 years old; Frank Ferranti, 47, owners of the theater and adjoining loft building; Joseph Sevadio, superintendent of the buildings; Leon Ferranti, 15, son of Ferranti, and James Maticic, night watchman of the buildings.

Ferranti, Ferranti, and Sevadio were charged with arson. The others were held as material witnesses. The blaze partly destroyed the theater and the upper floor of the loft building.

Brophy said the arrests were based on discovery of 3000 or more wax tapers strung across the upper floors of the loft building and that gasoline and oil-soaked newspapers had been stuffed in holes in the wooden stairways of the loft building.

No official reason for the transfer was announced, but it was reported that threats against Capone by other prisoners caused the county prison authorities to have him removed to "Cherry Hill," as the penitentiary is locally known.

MADDUX LIKELY TO GET JOB UNDER SUCCESSOR

Former School Superintendent Willing to Remain in St. Louis System.

John J. Maddux, who was dismissed by the Board of Education a month ago as Superintendent of Instruction, has indicated to his successor, Acting Superintendent Gerling, that he will accept a subordinate position in the public school system. This, it is understood, will have the approval of members of the board, who would confirm the appointment.

It had been anticipated that some position under Gerling would be offered to Maddux, and that he would take it. He showed his willingness to do so at a conference several days ago with Gerling, who had been an assistant under Maddux. The attitude Maddux is said to have taken is that he was promoted to the superintendency by the board, and that the board had a right to dismiss him or return him to a lower rank.

Upon the expiration of his contract last month, after two four-year terms as head of the instruction department, he was not re-appointed because of friction with the board in recent years. At present he has no official connection with the schools and he has declined to discuss his future plans.

Gerling and Maddux are personal friends. Gerling invited Maddux to remain in the school system. There is a possibility that he may get an executive position such as an assistant superintendency or a department directorship, or that he may become principal of a high school or a grade school. When Gerling's assistants return from their vacation he will discuss with them what position can be offered Maddux. The appointment likely would become effective when the schools open next month.

TEETH OUT IN FIGHT Prisoner in Police Court Says He Had to Defend Himself, but Prosecuting Witness Showed Blank Gums.

Joseph Barid stepped up to the bench in Provisional Judge Foster's division of Police Court this morning and produced a carefully folded handkerchief. Opening it, he disclosed to the court two front teeth. With his fingers he pulled aside his lips and showed the vacancies where the teeth had been.

Taking the witness stand, he complained that Edwin Kohler, 1925, a street defendant on a peace disturbance charge, had knocked out the teeth with his fist when Barid asked him what he was doing in his back yard at 2618 South Broadway.

"I was just taking a short cut through the yard, Judge," explained Kohler, "and when he came after me with a stick I had to defend myself."

"Let's see those teeth again," said the Court. The handkerchief was once more unfolded.

"Now the gums," Barid again bared the gums.

Obviously impressed by the visual evidence, the Judge said: $10 for each tooth."

ONE KILLED AND 11 INJURED
IN EXPLOSION ON OIL TANKER

Detonation Off Bayonne, N. J. Felt in Staten Island and Lower Manhattan.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—One man was killed and 11 were injured in an explosion this morning aboard the Standard Oil tanker William Rockefeller at anchor off Bayonne, N. J. The blazing tanker was pushed by tugs away from the oil docks and toward the lower bay. The detonation was felt in Staten Island, Lower Manhattan and all along the New Jersey water front.

Burning oil was spread over the water through which tugs, attracted to the scene, had difficulty in finding a clear passage to rescue the 11 injured members of the crew.

The vessel, one of the largest of the carriers of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, carried a crew of between 30 and 40 men.

In an effort to avoid complaints such as resulted from methods of selling tickets in former years, the board forbids patrolmen to sell tickets in saloons or places suspected of handling liquor, in handbooks shops or other gambling places, or in immoral resorts.

The police also are forbidden to sell tickets beyond the city limits or to professional boxmen or persons under arrest or about to be arrested.

BEER FOUND; WOMAN ARRESTED

CHINESE WOMAN EDITOR SENSITIVE TO CRITICISM

Accused of Leading Seven Men in Attack on Rival Publisher

in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—In Tombs Court yesterday, Magistrate Corrigan heard Thomas P. Chan, publisher of the Chinese Journal, testify that a woman and seven men entered his office July 31 and assaulted him because an article in his paper referred to the woman as the "water flower wife of C. Foo."

The woman, Li Chit Ming, who edits the Chinese Nationalist Daily News, which Foo owns, demanded that Chan retract his description of her and told her companions to kill him when he refused. Chan's injuries kept him in Bellevue Hospital three days.

Sam Wong, 25, a laundry worker, was identified by Chan as one of his assailants and was held in $1000 bail on a charge of felonious assault. Magistrate Corrigan issued a bench warrant for the arrest of the woman.

GIRL'S 59-DAY HICCoughs

Memphis (Tenn.) Patient, on Awakening, Rid of Disturbance; Simple Psychology Experiment.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 9.—A simple experiment in psychology late yesterday relieved Miss Vera Stone, 18 years old, of hiccoughs from which she had suffered for 59 days. Remedy after remedy had failed.

The new and successful theory was this: Miss Stone had hiccuped so long that, to her, hiccoughs had become a normal element in her life. Hysteria induced by the continued strain had made her incapable of believing she could recover.

Strong injections of a powerful drug caused her to sleep and yesterday on awakening she promptly ceased to hiccup, her mind having been taken from her

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 9.—From noon today until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the body of Victor L. Berger, former Socialist leader, will lie in state in the vaulted rotunda of Milwaukee's City Hall tower, scene of so many of his party's victories.

A cordon of police will maintain a guard of honor beside the bier

While at last tribute is being paid to the former leader of the party here. Socialists in all parts of the nation are to assemble in their various meeting places to conduct memorial services.

The huge electric sign that beams "Welcome" on the facade of the building was dimmed last night for the first time in months, and this morning the American flag was run up at half staff on the highest gable of the tower.

The late Congressman's funeral tomorrow is to be a public one. Services are to be conducted in the open at the Forest Home Cemetery here. Should it rain, however, they will be held in the City Hall.

Dr. A. Eustance Hayden of the University of Chicago School of Divinity is to officiate. Another speaker will be Oscar Ameringer, editor of the Oklahoma City Leader, long a newspaper associate of Mr. Berger.

CANNON OFFERS TO AID IN CAMPAIGN INQUIRY

Bishop Offers Attorney-General Access to Information on Funds.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Bishop

James Cannon Jr. announced in a statement yesterday that he had written to Attorney-General Mitchell offering access to any information desired by the latter concerning the operations of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Bishop's personal activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The statement, made in response to a letter from Representative Tinkham (Rep.), Massachusetts, to the Attorney-General requesting an investigation of the Bishop and the board, declared "Tinkham's attack upon me is simply one of his periodical attacks upon the South, prohibition and Methodism to convince his anti-Roman Catholic Boston constituency that he should be retained as their representative in Congress which many of them seemed seriously to doubt in the last election."

Replies to a challenge by the Congressman that he disclose the source of money lent the Virginia non said his previous statement on the subject "is clear and explicit."

"It declares," the Bishop said, "that all loans were made by James Cannon Jr. personally." Mr. Tinkham wants to know "from what source did he (Bishop Cannon) obtain the large sums which between August and November he loaned to the anti-Smith Democratic committee. . . . He institutes that it was his own money but he dare not say so."

"Bishop Cannon 'institutes' nothing," the churchman's statement continued. "He stated the exact facts."

The statement asserted that the Bishop knew from past experience the need for funds in opening the office of the anti-Smith Democratic committee in Richmond and that he, therefore, arranged for a revolving bank account into which he put personal funds and money which he borrowed on his own personal credit and gave the treasurer of the anti-Smith group authority to draw as needed for the work of the committee.

Pointing out that Tinkham "can get a list of Virginia banks with which Bishop Cannon has done business for years and find out whether they think Bishop Cannon would have any difficulty in arranging a credit of $10,000, $15,000 or $20,000 for a period of six months," the statement added that the Bishop "did not hesitate to use his own money and credit to accomplish his purpose."

100 DEPORTED FROM ILLINOIS AFTER SERVING PRISON TERMS

Policy to Rid State of Aliens Who Violate Laws to Be Enforced.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 9.—One hundred aliens who have served their minimum terms for crimes committed in Illinois have been deported this year, Rodney Brandon, Director of Welfare, announced yesterday.

More than 400 unnaturalized immigrants remaining in State penitentiaries will be sent back to their native countries as soon as they have served the minimum term under the law, Brandon said.

It cost the state, Brandon estimates, approximately $150,000 a year to care for men in prisons who have actually forfeited their rights to be in the United States.

"From now on," he said, "unnaturalized immigrants will be deported."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

JUDGE BARS PAINTINGS
BY D. H. LAWRENCE

London Magistrate Forbids Display of Pictures Seized as Obscene.

(Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., Inc., New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Aug. 9.—At the hearing in Marlborough Street police court yesterday of a summons against the local exhibitors of paintings by D. H. Lawrence, well-known English author, the magistrate agreed to adjourn the summons sine die on the promise of the defendants that neither the pictures nor reproductions of them shall be exhibited in the future; that those pictures bought during the exhibition shall be returned to the purchasers and the others to Lawrence.

Four books containing reproductions of the paintings and explanatory notes by Lawrence the magistrate ordered destroyed on grounds of obscenity.

Lawrence was not a party to the summons as he is classed as an Englishman living permanently abroad and is at present in Germany. The pictures had been on exhibition for some time before the gallery where they were being shown was raided by the police on July 5, when 13 of the 25 paintings and four books were taken away and the summons issued against the exhibitors.

The paintings are mostly nudes and are unusual in anatomical detail and pose. The public prosecutor alleged that the paintings are "gross, hideous, coarse and unlovely from either the aesthetic or the artistic viewpoint." He asked for the destruction of 13 on the ground of obscenity.

The magistrate refused to consider the argument of the lawyer for the defense that the pictures were serious works of art on the ground that that had nothing to do with the question of their obscenity. Nor would he adjourn the hearing so that the defense could call a number of prominent artists on that point, including Sir William Orpen, Augustus John and Glyn Philpot.

The defense lawyer characterized the proceedings as the establishment of quiet a new form of censorship, adding that he had not been able to find any case in which serious paintings had been brought into police court and a magistrate asked to decide whether or not they were decent.

"We have had to wait," he declared, "for the year 1929 for a so-called advanced Government to be in power before that form of censorship is set up in this country. It is of vital importance to painters. When painting pictures in the future they'll have to think not only of the picture itself, but also of whether a policeman will approve of it and whether a magistrate will think it decent."

USE OF FLORIDA JAIL TO HANG FEDERAL PRISONER BARRED

Horace Alderman, Killer of Three Dry Agents, Sentenced to Die Aug. 17.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 9.—Denied use of either the roof of Broward County Jail or the courtyard, Federal authorities today were without a place to erect a scaffold and gallows for the hanging of Horace Alderman, convicted slayer of three Government dry agents in a sea fight off the Florida coast in 1927.

Under an order of Federal Judge Halstead L. Ritter, Alderman must hang Aug. 17 on the roof of the county jail. County officials, however, have demurred on the ground that the roof of the jail is bonded by a roofing company and that use of it in this manner would cause the bond to be voided. The Government, as second choice asked if a scaffold and gallows could be erected in the courthouse yard, and this request was turned down.

Meanwhile, two County Commissioners have interposed objections to the hanging on county property when two Government reservations, one the Coast Guard base and another an Indian reservation are nearby.

BOY DIES AFTER EATING STALE MEAT, THREE ARE ILL

Kentucky Youth Had Been Paid to Throw it Away But Took It Home.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERSET, Ky., Aug. 9.—A boy who took home meat he had been hired to throw away was dead today from eating part of it and three members of his family were sick.

The boy, Samuel Stevens, 12 years old, died yesterday. His grandmother, Mrs. William Stevens, is not expected to live, and two brothers, 10 and 4, are reported in a serious condition. His grandfather who also ate of the meat, was ill but recovered.

Investigation started after all members of the family became ill last Sunday, disclosed that the boy had received 10 cents to haul away discarded meat from a chain store. He found some hamburger in the lot, took it home and it was cooked and served by the grandmother.

Are Today's Women Sinners?

"NO" says Kathleen Norris

Where is the modern girl headed? Where will so-called modern morality lead her? Is she the sinner the psychologists of 1900 say she is?

Kathleen Norris, who knows the hearts of women better than any author, says that the girl of today is a finer, more courageous, more intelligent and more capable woman than her sister of ten, twenty, and thirty years ago.

DRY LAW AGENTS AND VIOLATORS CELEBRATE

Officers Invited to Feast When Bill Cogburn, Head of Hill Clan, Surrenders.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 9.—There was rejoicing, feasting and a general celebration between members of the Cogburn mountain clan of liquor law violators and Federal and State officers at the home seat of the clan in Greasy Cove, 18 miles northwest of Mount Ida, Montgomery County, Tuesday, the event resulting from the surrender of Bill Cogburn Sr., head of the well-known family, to answer a multiplicity of liquor and intimation charges.

Only Corn Whisky Missing.
The hill dwellers gathered at the homes of two of the Cogburns, with the Federal and State officers as their invited guests, to partake of a repast of choice cuts of beef, pork, chicken, wild game, fruits, cakes and dairy products prepared in rustic style. The only part of the regular menu, corn whisky, was missing.

Cogburn, 48 years old, and the recognized chieftain of the hill folks in their liquor operations, is the father of 11 children. He has been sought by Deputy United States Marshal W. F. Freeman of Little Rock and Deputy Sheriff Will Lowe of Garland County since June 26 on a charge of intimidating a Government witness who had testified against him in a liquor case, as well as furnishing damaging evidence against two of Cogburn's sons on liquor charges. Following his surrender and the feast, Cogburn was held to the Federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Roy Ermey on charges of manufacturing liquor and intimidating a witness.

Others of Family on Bond.

Cogburn's wife, Lula, already had made bond and was allowed to return to her home and children, the youngest of which is 10 months old. She is charged with manufacturing and possessing liquor and operating and possessing a distilling outfit in the woods near the family home.

Two sons, Melvin and William Jr., are in jail in Little Rock on similar charges, and the 16-year-old wife of William Jr. has given bond on a charge of contempt of court in connection with trials of members of her family for liquor operations.

Cogburn said the still which started all the trouble was "only a small one," producing only about 10 gallons a week, all of which was given away or consumed by the family.

While dodging the officers the past five weeks, Cogburn said he lived by hunting and fishing and slept part of the time in a cave. The officers made five trips to the Greasy Cove section before they arrested him. And then he voluntarily surrendered, as he was wanting to see "the wife and kids."

Regular Business at Court.

Some member of the Cogburn family has been arraigned at each term of Federal Court here for the past eight years on liquor law violation charges. "Fooling with liquor" has come to be part of their farming and timber-cutting operations for a livelihood.

Officers said there are no less than two-score adults of Cogburns living in the Greasy Cove neighborhood. Liquor-making and selling is all the law has ever held against them.

ROSZIKA DOLLY'S NECKLACES
IMPOUNDED BY PARIS COURT

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Roszika Dolly, of the famous Dolly Sisters dancing team and the wife of Mortimer Davis Jr., yesterday, at the command of a Paris Court, produced one $140,000 pearl necklace which jewelers had accused her of failing to pay for, but she failed to satisfy them with regard to an equally valuable string.

She produced the second string, but the jewelers were not satisfied it was one they had delivered to her and for which they now seek payment or restitution.

A trustee took both strings to safeguard them until the dispute is settled. The jewelers complained they had been trying to collect their bill for a long time.

The dancer was found at the home of her sister near Paris and taken to the Palais de Justice. In their suit filed on Tuesday the jewelers charged her with swindling.

CITY CHEMIST BURNED
IN LABORATORY ACCIDENT

Firemen With Gas Masks Let Fumes Out of Basement of Municipal Courts Building.

Walter Dietrichs, 3642 Arkansas avenue, a city chemist, suffered burns on his right arm this morning when he accidentally spilled some carbon disulphide on a hot plate while making tests in the basement laboratory of the Municipal Courts building. A gaseous vapor drove him from the laboratory but he closed the door to prevent it from penetrating the building to a great extent.

Firemen wearing gas masks threw open the windows and the fumes were quickly dissipated. Dietrichs was treated in the dispensary in the building.

The chemical he was distilling is used in the cleaning of asphalt pavements. The vapor resulting from its contact with flame is not injurious unless breathed in large quantities.

$2320 HOLDUP ON STREET CAR BY THREE GUNMEN IN CHICAGO

Twenty Passengers Aboard at Time; Robbers Seize Money and Run Into Alley.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Three gunmen held control of a West Side street car for two blocks yesterday while they robbed Patrick Downs, restaurant owner, of $2320. After robbing Downs, the gunmen jumped from the car and escaped down an alley. There were 20 passengers in the car.

Downs had taken the next to the rear seat in the car. As the three robbers entered, one took a seat beside Downs and the other two sat behind him. A moment after they were seated, Downs felt the muzzles of two revolvers prod his back and heard the order: "Hand over that money or we'll kill you."

The man next to Downs reached into his inside pocket and jerked out the money envelope. Another robber ordered all passengers to be quiet and the third rushed to the front and forbade the motorman to stop without permission.

PATROLMAN ADMITS DRINKING; DISMISSED FROM THE FORCE
Penalties of Extra Service and Fines Imposed on Other Offenders.

Patrolman William T. Wunsch, Seventh District, was dismissed from the force by the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to several charges. Inspector Walton, at the request of the patrolman's wife, several weeks ago attempted to find him on his beat and found him drinking beer in a saloon.

Patrolman Thomas Grisham, Sixth District, must serve one extra hour each day for 31 days, for his refusal to obey an order of Inspector Walton, who had investigated a claim for back alimony at the request of Patrolman Grisham's divorced wife. Grisham was ordered to make a report of the matter. Two captains under whom Grisham served spoke of him as an exemplary police officer.

Patrolmen Jacob Neiner and Joseph Stuckemeyer of the Fifth District were fined $100 each when they were adjudged guilty of neglect of duty. They were found by their superior officer, Capt. Stinger, in a grocery store where other men were drinking beer in a rear room.

CANADA SEEKING A WAY TO HELP KEEP U. S. DRY

Premier Confirms Reports of Additional Co-operation Against Liquor Smuggling

Special to the Post-Dispatch. OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 9.—Premier W. L. MacKenzie King yesterday confirmed reports that the Dominion Government is considering ways and means to co-operate with the United States in stopping liquor-running.

MacKenzie King's statement coincided with the release of figures showing the effectiveness of the Detroit River dry blockade.

The premier said, at the conclusion of the Cabinet meeting, at which the smuggling situation was discussed: "Since the United States officials have become more active themselves in preventing liquor-smuggling, it seems appropriate that further measures of co-operation should be considered by the Canadian Government.

Canadian figures show that liquor exports from Windsor to the United States have shown a sharp decrease. Exports of whisky dropped from 54,722 gallons in May to 37,317 gallons in June, and beer exports fell of 40,000 gallons since May.

Deputy Inspector Alfred Cuddy of the Ontario provincial police doubts the report of United States undercover agents that short-circuiting of liquor and beer is a flourishing business in Western Ontario.

U. S. BUSINESS DELEGATION INSPECTS RUSSIAN FURNACES

By the Associated Press.

STALINGRAD, Russia, Aug. 9.—Undeterred by the sweltering heat, the American tourists yesterday visited a number of steel plants, glass furnaces and reduction works and went to the bottom of a 2000-foot coal mine in this district, called the Pittsburg of soviet Russia. They were amazed at the low wages paid, ranging from $30 to $100 a month for even the highest executives.

The delegation completed yesterday the tenth day of its inspection of the industrial cities along the Volga and Donets Basin and left for Dneprostov, where they will inspect the hydro-electric plant being erected at a cost of $70,000,000, under the supervision of Col. Hugh Cooper of New York.

BEATEN; REFUSED TO JOIN EQUITYFrank Goddard, Stage Boxer, Attacked After Going to Aid of Harry Deck, Seriously Injured.

By the Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 9.—It was learned this morning that Frank Goddard, actor and boxer, had been attacked and seriously injured and his companion, Harry Deck, actor, badly beaten near the entrance of a motion picture studio yesterday. The men charged that they had been attacked after refusing to join the Actors' Equity Association.Goddard was taken to a hospital where he underwent an emergency operation in an attempt to save his life. Police said he had been kicked in the abdomen. Deck said Goddard had come to his assistance after six men had attacked him. He declared the assault followed his and Goddard's refusal to listen to demands that they join Equity.Lieut. William Haynes of the Police Intelligence Bureau reported he had the names and addresses of the men suspected of the attack.

Second Act of Violence.

This was the second case of violence that has been attributed to the difference among actors, union officers and film producers over Equity's attempt to establish closed shop in the motion picture industry.Several weeks ago a group of ex-service men employed at a studio dragged two of three persons, accused of being Equity sympathizers, from an automobile and destroyed several hundred feet of film found in their possession after the three had kissed, boozed and photographed them as they were leaving a movie lot.Disclosure was made last night that committees of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., and of Equity, had terminated their negotiations held in an effort to reach a compromise over the demand of union officials that only members of Equity be employed in motion picture productions.No statement was made concerning the progress of the sessions but it was understood that Equity members would join in a closed meeting at Hollywood tomorrow night at which time arbitration proposals of the producers are to be considered.

No Settlement Expected.

Observers of the two months' fight between Equity and the producers were of divided opinion as to whether there would be an early settlement.
Some took the attitude that the Equity meeting tomorrow would end the trouble, while others insisted that the lack of a statement after the last conference of the committees Wednesday indicated no settlement had been reached.The producers agreed to confer with Equity in the matter only after receiving a letter from six representative actors and actresses, members of Equity, asking that an attempt be made to reach a compromise.
Prior to that time the heads of the industry had refused to recognize demands of the association.Equity has suspended 26 actors for signing contracts with producers which the union organization considers objectionable.FIVE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Against Attorney-General.JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 9.—Two specific counts of impeachment against State's Attorney-General

the Attorney-General was charged with having retained approximately

POLICE TO MAKE NO ARRESTS
YET UNDER JAYWALKING LAW

Ordinance Effective Today, but Acting Chief Holds Up Action

Till Further Notice,

The trial anti-jaywalking ordinance became effective today for a 30-day period, but police have been ordered to make no arrests until further notice. The order was issued yesterday after Acting Chief of Police Glassco had conferred with the Board of Police Commissioners.

When arrests are begun, which may be in several days, only one clause of the ordinance will be enforced. This is the section requiring pedestrians to comply with the directions of traffic policemen and automatic traffic signals.

The other phase, which was intended to prohibit crossing streets in the congested districts except at the regular crossings, will not be enforced, because City Counselor March has ruled it invalid, owing to an error in describing the streets affected.

Drain Ruins It!
You're proud of your bathroom, almost all modern women—those who make a fine art of the fine points of living—are careful to have beautiful baths.
People today are so quick to notice details—so quick to judge. That's why the seeming trifles, the fine points of modern housekeeping are important!
For instance: Behind bathroom drains, under glistening tile, are pipes and valves. You never see them—yet, they are so important. And now it's very simple to care for them.
It is the same common-sense method, really, that plumbers have had for years! A small can of Desolve will always ready and pipes and valves will be always clear-running and sweet.
A little water in the pipe, shake in a little of the blue and black can,
and the whole job is done in a jiffy.
Please note this:
Desolve will never hurt the beautiful porcelain enamel you're so proud of. It will never scratch the lustre polish or costly bathroom fixtures.
Always, it is completely safe and easy to use.
You'll find it simpler, more practical to give every drain in the house a cleaning when you use it. Most wives make Desolve a regular one-month habit.
Your grocery, drug, hardware or department store carries Desolve.
You may get it in larger sizes from the plumber. Order some today.

WAITERS PICK DETROIT
BECAUSE OF SIDETRIPS

1930 Convention Choice Unanimous—Creed Includes "He Who Serves Best, Profits Most."

"—and last, but far from least, dear brother Wild Cats, Detroit is only 10 minutes from Canada!"

Delegate W. T. Johnson, a waiter at the Knollwood Country Club, near Detroit, sat down amid hearty cheers. He had put "the motor city of the world" in nomination for the 1930 convention of the National Association of Colored Waiters and Hotel Employees and he had "saved the best until last" in doing so.

Further nominations were useless. The Chicago delegation had come down to the take the next convention back home, but their cause was lost and they knew it. Already the Detroit crowd was circulating handbills which described the chief attraction in unassailable language. "Although the arid atmosphere of prohibition hovers over us," it read, "the oasis of Canada is easily within our reach. Just 10 minutes and 10 cents to take the ferry across the river to Windsor. Your thirst may be quenched with all the ales and beverages of former days at reasonable prices. Stay as long as you like and return when you please."

Chicago withdrew, nominations were closed and Detroit was unanimously approved.

A "service and dress" creed for waiters distributed during the convention, reads as follows: "Service is the advance systematizing, planning and preparation required to produce those things expected by the patron when needed, promptly, expeditiously, without confusion, fuss or ostentation in a thoughtful, kindly manner.

"Service in the hotel or dining room is not servility, as is so commonly supposed, but rather is an art or profession worthy of extensive study and preparation."

"It goes without saying that the serving of food in an atmosphere of neatness and cleanliness is also an essential element of 'good food' and a satisfied patron.

"Dress for the dining room as you would for your prized social engagement—clean body, hair neatly trimmed and well combed, nails short, clean and polished, face clean shaven at all times, clean white collar, clean fresh uniform neatly pressed, black bow tie neatly tied, clean teeth, clean breath and, above all, a pleasant facial expression (no matter how hard it hurts).

"Combine these facts and cultivate them until they have become a part of you, and you will most surely find that 'he who serves best profits most.'"

The convention, which began Monday, closed tonight with the Wild cat "Inaugural" ball.

Armed Pair Gets $95 in Pharmacy and $35 in Barber Shop.

Ben Bloom was held up in his drug store at 5501 St. Louis avenue at 11 o'clock last night by two armed men who took $95 from his cash registers and pockets and escaped in an automobile.

A witness reported the license number of the robbers' car. The plates had been stolen from another car. A police car gave chase but was outdistanced.

The same robbers obtained $35 in a holdup at the barber shop of William Shackett, 6822 Page boulevard.

When the cashier stepped out of the second floor office of the Garner Construction Co., 2317 Tennessee avenue, yesterday afternoon a thief stepped in and stole $242.25. The Rev. Henry Kochheim of Mount Tabernacle Evangelical Church, 6529 Arsenal street, reported 10 watermelons, valued at 40 cents each, had been stolen from a basement there. The melons were being used for a church festival.

Two men held up Abe Bricker, 1362 Montclair avenue, about 8:30 o'clock last night on Ninth street, between Morgan street and Franklin avenue, and robbed him of $41. They fled down an alley.

Attorney for George De Moss accuses Colorado and California Authorities.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 9.—Charging collusion between Colorado and California authorities, in an attempt to get George de Moss, alleged Colorado bank robber, back to Lamar, Colo., for trial, Attorney George Springer of Peoria yesterday opposed extradition in a hearing before the Illinois Attorney-General.

De Moss has an air-tight alibi in the Colorado case," Springer said. "Consequently Colorado has waived extradition, and California seeks it on an old charge, dropped at the time, that De Moss was wanted for highway robbery at Tracy, Cal., south of San Francisco.

California officers will take De Moss back by way of Colorado and Colorado officers will grab him before he gets out of that State and hustle him over to Lamar for trial. If nothing else intervenes, I'll go to Lamar to defend him. And if this hearing doesn't go through this afternoon, I'll apply for a habeas corpus writ."

De Moss is in jail in Kankakee, Ill. The bank robbery at Lamar resulted in the death of four persons.

MISSSES WILLS AND JACOBS WIN IN PLAY FOR WIGHTMAN CUP

By Alan J. Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 9.—American aspeth the opening two singles matches of the tennis series for the Wightman Cup this afternoon, when Helen Jacobs scored a hard-fought victory over Betty Nuttall, youthful ace of the British team, 7-5, 8-6, after Helen Wills had overcome the stubborn opposition of Mrs. Phoebe Watson, 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Wills won because of her superlative control when hard pressed, which she was from start to finish. Although the American took the first set handily, four of the seven games were torrid deuce battles. The second set was a drag-drag affair in which Mrs. Watson actually outdrove the American champion on many occasions as they engaged in protracted base line exchanges.

Denney was good form, turning the 18 holes in 76, four over par. He took a lead of two up on the first nine holes.

Their cards:

Kauffmann Wins Again

Cari Kauffmann, Pittsburgh, defending the championship which he has won for the past two years, came through his third round match with a victory over John Boyd of Philadelphia, 3 and 2. Kauffmann will play Hornsey in a semifinal match this afternoon.

Wills was good from the start, dropping a set at any time in the last three years, twice losing her services and coming from behind to clinch the match in the final game with five successive winning points.

A crowd exceeding 7000 cheered the courageous fight of the English woman against her famous opponent. Last year Mrs. Watson was able to take only three games from Miss Wills in the Wightman Cup play.

The First Set.

Mrs. Watson began service, but the first game went to deuce five times before Miss Wills broke through for a victorious start. The English woman showed every readiness to trade wallop with her rival and rallied after trailing at 15-40.

The California girl soon began to assert her power, however, and ran Mrs. Watson from one side of the court to the other, leading 2-0 as she broke through service for the second time. A beautiful cross-court volley enabled Mrs. Watson to extend the fourth game to deuce and it took several spirited rallies before Miss Wills pulled out. Deuce being called four times altogether.

Mrs. Watson finally made her own service good. In the fifth game, on a series of well directed drives, but Miss Wills won the sixth. The American girl clinched the set in the seventh game but only after another deuce point.

27 TEAMS WILL COMPETE IN MUNICIPAL BASEBALL ELIMINATIONS

PLAY TO BEGIN
AUG. 18; RACES
STILL UNDECIDED
IN SIX LEAGUES

By Damon Kerby

Twenty-seven championship teams will compete in the Municipal Baseball Association's elimination games which start Sunday, Aug. 18, it was announced by the Parks Department today. Last year 25 teams participated.

Not counted in the 27 teams are three championship "intermediate league" nines which will hold a series of their own to decide a city intermediate champion. Four teams were in the intermediate series last year.

According to Park Department officials, four Municipal Leagues failed to enter the eliminations. They are the Bell Employes, the Polish Roman Catholic League and the Frigidale League. A rule against playing on Sunday was the cause of the Sunday School League failing to enter a team. The Frigidale League has disbanded. The Bell Employes and Polish Roman Catholic League winners did not enter for reasons unannounced.

Six Titles Still Undecided. With the regular schedules winding up tomorrow and Sunday, races have been decided in all but six municipal leagues. There are the Senior, Evangelical, Community House, Dr. Molony, North Side, South Side and Public Service Leagues.

The elimination drawings are scheduled to be made Monday. Championship winners in the four strongest leagues will be seeded in the upper and lower brackets. The seeded teams probably will be from the Independent, Mercantile, South Side and Empire Leagues.

As told previously, all competing teams must file their lists of eligible players by Tuesday at 5 p.m. Any protests against players must be lodged with the baseball executive committee by Thursday at 8 o'clock. After the opening, Aug. 18, eliminations will be run off on Saturdays and Sundays. The eliminations will take five or six weeks.

DRY CREEK TIES WORLD RECORD IN WINNING SIXTH MADISON DERBY

BEST COON DOG TO GET $200 AND LOVING CUP

SCHEBEN DOG FINISHES FIVE LENGTHS AHEAD OF GREY BUCK

Displaying the same fine form he showed in his victory over Cashier 10 days ago and his subsequent triumphs in qualifying sprints, Dry Creek, owned by Andy Scheben Jr., equalled the world record for the three-eights mile route when he defeated seven greyhound rivals last night to capture the sixth Madison Derby before a crowd estimated at 20,000. The victor ran the Derby distance in 39.1-5, to share the honor achieved by Hazard II on the same course Aug. 2 last.

There was only a moment during the race that the followers of the Scheben Kennel racer, a 1 to 2 favorite, had cause for anxiety. That was shortly after the start of the race, when Dry Creek ran wide at the first turn, and Banjo Encore, a juvenile import, belonging to Mrs. O. R. Wohlauf, sprinted into the lead, which he relinquished to Dry Creek as they passed the grand stand for the first time.

Dry Creek Takes Command.

Dry Creek got away in front, with Hard-a-Starboard, favored by the rail position, furnishing a brief challenge, and Swift and Sure, litter-brother of the victor, pressing them closely. Banjo Encore raced into the initial turn, then assumed his brief command.

Once Dry Creek regained the lead he steadily increased his advantage to finish five lengths ahead of Grey Buck, the Fiedler Kennel star, which came from the rear of the pack to pass Swift and Sure, when the latter weakened on the stretch drive.

The Villain, representing the Clay Center Kennels, beat Swift and Sure to the wire by one length to capture third place while the latter barely nosed Shackson out of fourth place. Banjo Encore, Hard-a-Starboard and Spalding Bower finished sixth, seventh and eighth respectively.

MARK TWAIN HOTEL CO.
RECEIVERSHIP SOUGHT

Present Ownership Not Involved in Action Over $1000 Note.

Suit for a receiver for the Mark Twain Hotel Co. was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Eugene Crutcher, office manager of the Dubinsky Real Estate Co., who sued as a creditor. Julius Feldman, president of the hotel company, is named as co-defendant.

The defendant company and Feldman promoted the new Mark Twain Hotel, a 16-story structure at Eighth and Pine streets, and sold it early this year to the Claridge Hotel Co. The present ownership of the hotel is not involved in the receivership suit. Charles Levy Sr., president of the Claridge Co., said that the hotel, which is not yet completed, will be opened Sept. 7. Before the company bought from the existing company, he said, a guarantee was obtained from a title company.

Crutcher alleges that he holds a note for $1000 made by the Mark Twain Co., through its president. The note was originally issued to Frank Dubinsky and was assigned to the plaintiff. It fell due last February and has not been paid, it is alleged.

The petition sets forth that the Mark Twain Co. is no longer functioning, having sold the hotel property, and that the company's assets are being wasted. The plaintiff asserts that a receivership is necessary to protect creditors of defendant corporation. Feldman could not be reached.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 9.—The City of St. Louis and the Wabash Railway Co. filed a joint application with the Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday for approval of plans to replace the present bridge carrying the Wabash tracks over Kingshighway Northwest with a larger bridge in connection with the widening of Kingshighway Northwest between Euclid avenue and Broadway.

BRIAND ASSAILS
BRITISH STAND ON YOUNG PLAN

"Cannot Conceive of Any Nation Dissipating Hopes That Were Raised by This Conference."

ENGLISH EXPECTED TO LEAVE PARLEY

Snowden Delivers Ultimatum — His Proposal for Revision Likely to Be Rejected.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 9.—Premier Briand of France caused a flurry in reparations circles tonight by issuing a statement upholding the French viewpoint against the British claim to revision of the Young plan.

"I cannot conceive of any great nation taking upon itself the responsibility of dissipating hopes that were raised by this conference," said Briand in a declaration dictated to the press. "But if that must happen," he added, "you may be sure that that heavy burden will not fall upon the shoulders of France."

The French Premier reviewed the difficulties encountered by the experts and recalled that five of the six Powers who decided to call that conference had approved the plan elaborated and asked: "Is the conference to fail because one Power, opposed to the plan, cannot induce the five others to accept its views?"

The declaration, coming on the eve of tomorrow's critical meeting of the Financial Committee which is to take up the British claim for revision of the Young plan, caused less than a flurry in conference circles than had the declarations of Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, against the Young plan.

Rejection of British demands by other nations participating here in the conference of the Governments of reparations, and departure of the British delegation were regarded generally in conference circles today as inevitable developments of the next day or so.

It was regarded as certain that the reparations committee of the conference tomorrow or soon after would reject the resolution of Philip Snowden, head of the British delegation, for a subcommittee to revise the Young reparations plan.

In the last three days Snowden has affirmed so positively his Government's intention not to accept a lessened share in the distribution of German reparations that recession from his stand was considered highly improbable and hardly possible.

The attitude of the other nations concerned, notably France, Italy and Belgium, was just as firm in opposition. These nations should be accepted without alteration, as it stands now; that while not perfect, it represents the best possible arrangement under the circumstances.

Meanwhile members of the other delegations considered how to keep the conference alive without the presence of the British. It was possible, it was said, for the remainder of the governments to go ahead without Great Britain and make a separate agreement with Germany, leaving Great Britain to do the same.

The principal objection to this arrangement was that it was not conciliatory and that while it settled Europe's difficulties in one direction, it raised other difficulties in another. It was also pointed out that the proposed international bank required British co-operation.

The heads of the national delegations resumed their conversations. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Minister, called on Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, and, but it was understood they discussed political aspects of the conference rather than its financial problems.

Henderson later had an appointment with Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, while Emile Moreau, governor of the Bank of France, met Dr. Rudolf Hillebrand, German Minister of Finance.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 9.—Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday placed a flat ultimatum before the international conference convened here to liquidate the financial and political problems bequeathed by the World War.

Abandon the division of reparations among Germany's creditors provided for in the Young plan and return to the Spa percentage was the ultimatum.

SECOND CENTURY
MUMMY UNEARTHED
NEAR BUDAPEST

Discovered on the Site of the Ancient Roman City of Aquincum.

By the Associated Press. BUDAPEST, Aug. 9.—On the site of the ancient Roman city of Aquincum now known as Tabor Hill, half an hour distant from Budapest, a mummy has been found which is thought to date from the second century A. D.

The tomb is lined with stone slabs which are illustrated episodes of animal life which are thought to have formed the ceiling of the sanctuary. The mummy, supposed to be that of the wife of a rich merchant, suffered considerable damage after it was exposed to the air. The embalming is so perfect that experts attribute it to an Egyptian who had been summoned from Alexandria for this purpose.

In the stone coffin were a pair of rubber sandals, elaborate jewels, food vessels, a vanity bag containing various beauty ointments, a carved silver comb, bronze hairpins, an oil lamp and some coins of bronze.

Aquincum was in the days of the Roman Empire a vast cemetery. It is intended to continue the excavations.

TAN OR NO TAN, STANFORD
MEN MUST WEAR SHIRTS

Order Draws Fire From Students Who Cite Women's Backless Dresses, Bare Legs.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Aug. 9.—Sun tan or no sun tan, all Stanford male students must wear shirts out-of-doors in the future. Controller A. E. Roth of the university has so decreed.

The situation, characterized by some students as "provincial and a reversion to the mauve decade," was supposed to have been occasioned by the action of undergraduates who played tennis clad only in gymnasium trunks. Students employed about the campus as truck drivers also were said to have offended by removing their shirts while at work.

An editorial in the student daily newspaper today criticized the order, calling attention to the fact that many women students go stockless unchallenged and flaunt extremely low backs in many instances. The order was characterized as discrimination.

CHICAGO DIVERSION APPEAL

Sanitary District Trustees Deny Using Lake Water.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Trustees of the Chicago Sanitary District yesterday voted to carry their appeal to President Hoover in their litigation for a permit to continue diversion of water from Lake Michigan over the opposition of six near-by states.

The complaining states recently submitted a memorial to President Hoover alighting among other things, that the sanitary district made a profit of $1,000,000 year from its electrical plant through diversion of the lake water. States opposing the diversion are Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

The board named three trustees to draft a memorial which they may take in person to Washington. It will deny they make a profit on electricity.

MEETING THURSDAY ABOUT
SITE OF POSTOFFICE ANNEX

Request Will Be Formulated That Building Face Union Station Plaza.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—Advices to the Rengo News Agency from Manchouli, Manchuria, said the sound of heavy bombardment from the direction of Matsievskaya had been heard since 7 a. m. today. The inhabitants were much alarmed. It was believed here, however, to be no more than a Soviet demonstration.

Although the press dispatches indicated an increasingly threatening situation, official sources were informed, discounted much of what was reported as based on rumor.

The Foreign Office denied knowledge of reported orders for Japanese raids to the disturbed areas.

Reports of breakdown of negotiations arising out of seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway were not regarded seriously, since, as understood here, the negotiations have been simply long-distance telephone conversations by which the Chinese plenipotentiaries have endeavored to open conversations with Soviet representatives.

The Russians are said to have declined, contending they could not open any negotiations until the status quo had been restored on the railroad.

Matsievskaya is in Siberia, just across the Western Manchurian frontier and about 15 miles west of Manchouli.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 9.—Losses on Australia's soldier settlement scheme after the World War, which are estimated at $117,000,000, will be shared equally by the Commonwealth and the state governments, under the report of Justice Pike, which Premier Stanley Bruce has accepted.

The Eighteenth and Market location, although valued at $400,000 more than the other site, is in the hands of one owner, facilitating the purchase.

Premier and Labor Secretary invited to Manchester for Conference With Leaders.

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 9.—Premier MacDonald and Miss Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, have been invited to Manchester in an effort to reach a settlement of the textile industry stoppage.

"This would be a gesture to bring both parties together," Joe Compton, House member for Groton Division, Manchester, who sent the invitation, said today. He has had no reply.

Meanwhile, Sir Horace Wilson, deputized by the Premier to try to end the deadlock, is conferring with representatives of employers and operatives.

Cotton Situation to Be Considered Next in View of Forecast of 15,543,000 Bale Crop.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Agriculturists of the South, rather than those of the great wheat regions, are the first to get a share of the Federal Farm Board's $500,000,000 revolving fund.

Recognizing the menace of the Mediterranean fruit fly and the need for emergency aid to minimize the loss from its depredations, the board's first loan has been allotted to the Florida United Growers and the Florida Citrus Growers' Exchange to help those co-operatives in the preparation of this year's crop so it can be marketed. The amount of the loan is $300,000.

The money is to be used to equip distribution plants of the organizations with heating and pre-cooling facilities to meet Government requirements for treatment of fruit which has been exposed to the fly.

The request of a group of Florida Citrus Marketing Associations for several million dollars for organization purposes has been held up pending the working out of a permanent, more unified co-operative program by them, and the board turned its attention today to the problems of cotton organizations.

The cotton growers' marketing problem is regarded in many quarters as urgent in view of the 15,543,000-bale crop indicated in the Agriculture Department's report. After considering the cotton growers' appeals, the board plans to take up the problems of wool producers.

HEAVY FIRING REPORTED

Town of Matsievskaya to Be Alarmed; Breakdown of Parley Rumored.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—Advices to the Rengo News Agency from Manchouli, Manchuria, said the sound of heavy bombardment from the direction of Matsievskaya had been heard since 7 a. m. today. The inhabitants were much alarmed. It was believed here, however, to be no more than a Soviet demonstration.

Although the press dispatches indicated an increasingly threatening situation, official sources were informed, discounted much of what was reported as based on rumor.

The Foreign Office denied knowledge of reported orders for Japanese raids to the disturbed areas.

Reports of breakdown of negotiations arising out of seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway were not regarded seriously, since, as understood here, the negotiations have been simply long-distance telephone conversations by which the Chinese plenipotentiaries have endeavored to open conversations with Soviet representatives.

The Russians are said to have declined, contending they could not open any negotiations until the status quo had been restored on the railroad.

Says Mrs. Willebrandt Is "A Stale Joke."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU request that I give my reasons for rejecting the Willebrandt advertisement. I haven't any, which is exactly the same spirit in which national prohibition was adopted. This is a German Lutheran community, and the people maintain the even tenor of their ways, prohibition or no prohibition. They used liquor with moderation in the old days and they still use it that way. The mention of Mrs. Willebrandt to the average Goldenteen brings a feeling of weariness and increased thirst. Mrs. Willebrandt is not new; she is a stale joke. Her confession that she kept liquor in the house and used it adds the last touch of inconsistency to a lost cause.

Even a condemned criminal should be allowed to talk. I would be in favor of permitting him to talk for a time, but not indefinitely. Mrs. Willebrandt retires by unanimous consent. Her crusade was primarily in favor of the grape and against the corn. Let every true man stand up for his state and its products, wine and all.

On the frontpage of the Literary Digest of June 29 there is the picture of Henry Virek and his family—wife and innocent babes. Utterly devoid of guilt, this man was slain by prohibition and the murder was upheld by prohibition. Only luck prevented the babes and mother from being slain by the same broadside from a shotgun. With this deed, I think prohibition definitely deserted the field of reason and entered the realms of lunacy.

Mrs. Willebrandt "Entertaining and Courageous."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONE of the most entertaining and courageous serials published in this country for many a day is that by Mrs. Willebrandt, "The Inside of Prohibition," now running in the Post-Dispatch. This is true, in my opinion, whether you believe in prohibition or not. The publication of these articles also convinces me that you are willing to print readable matter whether it agrees with your editorial policy or not. This is high-class journalism. Give us more.

OLIVER TWIST TURNER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

M. TORIST in his recent letter must have a reason for designating the traffic signal at Page and Academy avenues as "the most idiotic imaginable." His reasons are not apparent to those living in the vicinity of the place designated.

Traffic signals should be installed at points where the movement of traffic is accompanied with much danger to pedestrian travel. There is a school with an enrollment of over 1,000 children at Page and Academy. There is also a church at the same place with an average weekly attendance of 5,000. A considerable proportion of those people must cross at the intersection of Page and Academy with great danger to life and safety.

Before the installation of the traffic signal in question several persons had been killed and injured. Even now with the protection afforded by the traffic signal the element of danger is not entirely removed; without the signal it would be practically impossible for any pedestrian to cross with any degree of security. The people of this section of our city demand such security, not as a privilege, but as a right.

PETER J. O'Rourke,
Reector, St. Mark's Church, Page and Academy avenues.

26 Per Cent.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Post-Dispatch has stated the extent of the Public Service Co.'s poverty in such terms as to make its hypocritical plea in "Transit News" absurd. The bondholders derive no benefit from increased fares. Owners of preferred stock receive only a fixed amount. The "gray" slips into the pockets of the speculators and promoters who, by owning the common stock, control the company and reap all the profits.

As the Post-Dispatch has shown, these profits now run up to 26 per cent of the total investment of owners of common stock. What would they be if the so-called "fair return" authorized by the Public Service Commission and backed up by the courts should be actually realized?

A nice question, and one which makes our augh and immovable court indicated to the sacred rights of property, about as ridiculous as the eighteenth century courts which embraced the principle of "the greater the truth, the greater the libel." If every pie of "reproduction new" valuation could be translated into the bare facts of profiteering as they appear on your first page of Aug. 7, this supreme invention of the tory brain would not need to be thrown out of court; it would be laughed at.

FAIR RETURN.

THE RYCKOFF LIGHTING CONTRACT.

Despite every effort to gloss over the apparent fraud in the Ryckoff lighting contract, a survey by the city which has now covered 46 per cent of the work bears out the contractor's admission to the Post-Dispatch that he cheated the city.

Ryckoff told a reporter for the Post-Dispatch in his Chicago office last January he had made "short cuts" on the contract to get back graft money he had paid to "the city hall crowd in St. Louis." The survey made by the Post-Dispatch showed he had overcharged the city approximately $175,000, and the resurvey being made by the city is also bearing him out.

To justify the contractor's bill the width of repaving in the remaining 54 per cent of the work will have to be more than three feet, whereas the average width of the work surveyed is from 6 to 10 inches for concrete resurfacing and from 30 to 48 inches for brick. It is known that the average width of repaving in the unmeasured portion will not vary materially from that already measured, so the survey made for the Post-Dispatch will be abundantly confirmed by that for the city.

Meanwhile Ryckoff and two former city officials who endorsed his bills are under indictment, and their cases will come up in the Circuit Court next October. The thoroughness with which Circuit Attorney Miller is following the matter is of the greatest possible importance to St. Louis. The people of this city some years ago voted $87,000,000 for public improvements. They were assured that this great sum of money would be zealously protected from public plunderers, and unless this promise is kept it is not reasonable to suppose that the community will lightly vote other bond issues. It is, of course, the business of the city administration to see that the promise is kept; but unfortunately the Miller administration is disposed to resent every charge of fraud as an attempt to discredit it politically.

This atmosphere should be cleared, as it will be cleared by persistent investigation of all public work under the bond issue. Ryckoff, the June grand jury now in session is under instruction to investigate all bond issue work. All such investigations have the excellent motive of safeguarding the public interest, and no attention need therefore be paid to the imputation of any motive other than that.

Let the investigation proceed.

SURE-ENOUGH FEARS.

One of the sugar crowd objects to Senator Smoot's sliding-scale because, he fears, it would be "price-fixing by the Government." The gentleman's fears may be lightly brushed aside. They are well-founded fears. But every duty levied by a tariff law, whether sliding or stationary, puts the Government into the game of fixing prices, ably and enthusiastically assisted by the chosen beneficiaries. A tariff that didn't fix prices would be a counterfeit, simulacrum, a delusion and a snare. Price-fixing is the tariff's real nature. And there's billions in it.

Of the outgoing and the incoming French Premiers, Clemenceau said: "Poincaré knows everything and understands nothing; Briand knows nothing and understands everything."

RETREATS FOR OUR PRESIDENTS.

It was only last December that Mr. Coolidge, in his contribution to the Fiftieth Anniversary Number of the Post-Dispatch, called attention to the need of a country retreat to which the President might go to escape the summer rigors of Washington. He suggested that the Post-Dispatch start a campaign to provide one. The assignment was gladly accepted. Mr. Coolidge lent his good offices to the movement, which reached a happy conclusion when the last Congress made $48,000 available to his successor for the transformation of Mount Weather, a disused Weather Bureau station in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, into a week-end White House. On signing the bill which carried this item Mr. Coolidge congratulated the Post-Dispatch on the success of its campaign and remarked that "the Congress has shown an inclination to treat a President with the same kind of consideration it extends to our birds and other wild life."

The Mount Weather money, it now appears, will stay in the Treasury. Mount Weather has the altitude that Mr. Coolidge considered the prime requisite of a summer camp, but Mr. Hoover's first concern was to find good fishing. In selecting his own camp on the Rapidan River he has the approval, we may be sure, of all fishermen and, indeed, of all vacationists; for of what use is time off from the job if he cannot invite his soul in the matter that best pleases him?

And now Mr. Hoover graciously proposes to turn over his fishing camp, which he has built partly at his own expense, for the use of his successors. If our Presidents continue along this line we may expect eventually a summer White House for every taste.

Now it is the Egyptians themselves who are trying to get out of bondage.

NOT STOWAWAY NUISANCE.

Within a few short months the aircraft stowaway has changed from a novelty into a nuisance. The first one of record, a St. Louis youth who boarded the Graf Zeppelin on its previous eastward cruise, was hailed on both sides of the Atlantic as the discoverer of a new kind of adventure. He had his brief day in adding to the gaiety of nations, then subsided to private life. The Portland (Me.) tailor's apprentice whose weight burdened the Yellow Bird plane so that it fell short of its goal (Paris), owes his life to the forbearance of the flyers, who strangled their first impulse to heave him overboard. He was well-nigh universally condemned, but at least got out of it a new suit and transportation home. But the latest sky-crasher, who arrived in this country on board the Zeppelin, was confined in the "brig" all the way over and now has been deported, to be punished by the authorities on landing in Germany.

To Commander Ecken, the stowaway gag has become a worn-out joke. He points out the danger to which the rash adventurer subjected the passengers of the ship when he leaped down upon the envelope at the takeoff from Friedrichshafen. Had he not chanced to land on a girder, he would undoubtedly have torn the fabric and the result would have been a long delay for repairs or an air catastrophe. Every ounce of weight must be calculated ahead of time on an airship, and any extra load is a matter of serious import.

It seems that Bishop Cannon never was any pop gun around the bucketshops.

THE PROHIBITION SURVEY.

There is no guarantee that the findings of the four very able people detailed as a committee from Mr. Hoover's crime commission to survey prohibition will immediately alter the present sharp division of public opinion upon that subject. Nevertheless, the survey will have the benefit of fine intelligence and will in time affect public sentiment. If it were not so, the country would be incapable of finding its way out of a very bad plight; and the country has always been able to find its way out of a bad plight.

The survey will be made by Mr. George W. Wickersham, a former Attorney-General of the United States; Mr. Newton D. Baker, who was Secretary of War in Mr. Wilson's Cabinet; Judge William S. Kenyon, for many years a leader in the United States Senate, and now on the bench of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth District; and Miss Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College.

In our opinion no better qualified quartette could survey the subject. If Messrs. Wickersham and Baker are known to advocate the wisdom of modifying the prohibition law, Judge Kenyon and Miss Comstock are supposed to doubt the wisdom of modification.

Since there are no neutrals in this field, the personnel of the investigating body could not be fairer. There is hardly a member of it that would have an opinion despite the fact. The high-mindedness of Mr. Baker and Judge Kenyon is too well known to need discussion. Both men have been tempered in the fires of a vast public experience, and what they conclude will reflect a calm and patriotism far removed from the passion characterizing this controversy. If Mr. Wickersham and Miss Comstock are less known for the quality which has always distinguished Mr. Baker and Judge Kenyon, they have an unprecedent opportunity in this instance to prove that they too have it.

It goes without saying that the findings of the committee will satisfy neither wets nor drys. To what extent there is a middle ground to which public sentiment can be rallied remains to be seen.

The committee will have the widespread prison revolts, the bloody battles between citizens and prohibition agents, the killing of innocents, and the murder of men trying to do their duty, as well as other violent phenomena of this conflict between a free people and an unpopular law, to urge haste. It is a disquieting chaos that the committee faces, one which demands great understanding, great patience and great intelligence if we are to come out of it short of a catastrophe.

Upon that troubled sea we wish the committee bon voyage.

FRIENDSHIP IN OHIO.

"At the time you struck Miss Hix the first, second or third blows with the hammer, did you have any intention of killing her?" asked the defense attorney in the Snook trial.

"Heavens no! We were good friends at the time," answered the doctor.

BRITAIN AND EGYPT.

Much water has passed over the dam since the Egyptian Nationalist party focused the attention of the United States on its aspirations by sending the late Joseph W. Folk of Missouri as its spokesman before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. That was during the Senate's fight over the treaty of Versailles, a time when any expression of a demand for national self-determination could be assured of a large measure of public sympathy. The case which Folk, as counsel before the American people, made out on behalf of the firebrand Zagloul Pasha and his followers, was no exception.

The Senate, of course, took no action on the demand for termination of the protectorate which England had set up over Egypt. There was none that it could take. Events since that time have marched toward an amicable adjustment of the difficulty by direct negotiation between the British Government and the Egyptians. There have been notable breaks in this advance, as when Zagloul was arrested and exiled, but the net gain is great. In 1922 the protectorate was ended and Egypt was declared to be a sovereign state. Great Britain, however, continued to dominate Egypt, and the impetuous Zagloul, with his multitude of followers, continued to agitate for complete independence.

Two years ago Great Britain offered a treaty that made important concessions. It failed to satisfy the aspirations of the Zagloul party, which was able to bring about its defeat in the Egyptian Parliament. Since then the present Ramsay MacDonald Government has come into power, and now we find the British agreeing to a treaty which goes farther toward meeting the Zagloul demands than did the convention of 1927.

Great Britain engages herself to withdraw all her troops from Egypt save from within the Suez Canal zone, to support the application of Egypt for membership in the League of Nations and to aid Egypt against any attack by a third Power. On the other hand, Great Britain retains supervision of Egyptian fiscal and military affairs, through a system of advisers, and binds Egypt on demand to furnish her, on Egyptian soil, with all the available facilities for war.

At the bottom of the British policy in regard to Egypt is insistence upon the security of the Suez Canal. The Portland (Me.) tailor's apprentice whose weight burdened the Yellow Bird plane so that it fell short of its goal (Paris), owes his life to the forbearance of the flyers, who strangled their first impulse to heave him overboard. He was well-nigh universally condemned, but at least got out of it a new suit and transportation home. But the latest sky-crasher, who arrived in this country on board the Zeppelin, was confined in the "brig" all the way over and now has been deported, to be punished by the authorities on landing in Germany.

The proposed treaty does not relax the measures which Britain considers essential for the protection of her communications with the Far East. It carves, however, significant reforms which may enable King Fuad and his Premier to get it approved by the Egyptian Parliament over the expected opposition of the Zagloul party. Zagloul is dead; perhaps that fact will help to determine the outcome.

The treaty will not come before the British Parliament for ratification until it has been accepted by the Egyptian Legislature. If it is finally made effective the Labor Government of MacDonald must be given credit for a desirable result that the Conservative Baldwin regime was unable to bring about.

The even more extensive system of highways is designed to utilize chiefly existing routes adequately widened. On the other hand, new locations are found to be in most cases cheaper and more efficient for the seven express highways which are to radiate 25 miles from the center (in one case all the way to Philadelphia), and for the express loop about 12 miles out. The typical design of the latter provides a single or double central roadway and two local

New York's Regional Plan

Seven years of research results in definite program for district in and about metropolitan area; speeding up street traffic, with ample parking space, is proposed; widespread rapid transit system projected, extending present facilities of rail carriers and highways; outlying chain of parks suggested.

Arthur C. Comey in National Municipal Review.

THE final results of seven years of collecting information, establishing principles, studying tendencies and planning a multitude of details, with an expenditure of over $1,000,000, are now collected in a single comprehensive plan for the region about New York City. It well repays this great effort. While couched in conservative language, the plan proposes revolutionary development of existing facilities.

To be sure, the long-haired social reformer will find in the plan no cures or even preventives for many evils seemingly inherent in the aggregation of vast numbers of human beings in a single area of moderate size. The Committee on the Regional Plan at the outset accepted certain premises, such as that the population in the great area of 5,500 square miles would continue to grow, irrespective of planning or lack of planning, to probably double the present population of 10,000,000 within about 35 years. To anyone who does not accept this thesis, the report is barren.

On the other hand, the Committee believes that it is essential for the public welfare (1) that standards of health, comfort and safety should be raised in so far as compatible with true economy; (2) that movement of street traffic should be fast, little interrupted, and should have ample space for parking; (3) that residence and industry should be close enough to lessen unnecessary travel, yet adequately separated; and (4) that concentration of building bulk should not be greater than that most efficient for the use of the building—this to be secured by adequate open space.

They also state that increase in population and bulk of buildings do not in themselves produce wealth, nor do increased land values based on crowding indicate prosperity.

The regional zoning plan restricts industry further than the municipal zoning plan at present in effect, yet provides industrial areas near almost every metropolitan community. Residence areas, which are confined chiefly to the inner metropolitan district within a 25-mile circle, are distinguished from "open development areas," which constitute three-fourths of the 5,500 square miles of the region. Those open development areas include parks, water supply lands, golf clubs, institutions, cemeteries, airplane fields, military reserves, private holdings devoted largely to farming, and water areas.

Park proposals encircle the region almost continuously, including ribbon parks along many of the streams, ridges and the more remote beaches; several large areas similar to the recently acquired Pound Ridge Reservation, and a great extension of Bear Mountain Park southwest along the Ramapo into New Jersey and northeast across the Hudson. A partial use of water-supply areas for recreation is recommended, including trails along aqueducts and supervised picnic places. The need of energetic recreation of an informal type as an antidote to city life is emphasized in the plan.

The preservation of private estates, farms, forests and similar areas as "lungs" in the region is discussed from many angles. Since zoning against building or even condemnation of the right to build appears at present impractical, in order to assure continuance of open areas municipal acquisition of such lands in the outer belt is suggested, especially of forests.

In this brief review only a few lights of the recommendations can be touched upon. An extensive system of belt lines for the trunk line railroad system will ring around the inner metropolitan area, still further, with 13 union passenger terminals within a 10-mile circle. An independent suburban rapid transit system, many hundreds of miles in length but occupying in large part existing railroad rights-of-ways, is designed to serve every district within 25 miles of the center.

The final proposals of this report, reversing this doctrine as to the preservation of open spaces, relate to the reclamation of Jamaica Bay, the Hackensack Meadows and a new flat one-mile wide along Bayonne for new industrial and commercial city communities, including all social needs for residence and recreation.

Having completed the work for which it was constituted, under a grant from the Russell Sage Foundation, the Committee states its hope that it may at least be able to maintain an office and skeleton organization to interpret and make available to others the large and in some ways unique collection of material which has been gathered.

Of Making Many Books JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Wise Novelist

THEY STOOPED TO FOLLY. By Ellen Glasgow. (Doubleday.)

IT is to be feared that many a scowling lady is going to be disappointed in reading this excellent novel. In the first place, the author is perhaps a trifle misleading, concerning the temper of the times, and in the second place, the enterprising blurbster has given the impression that the story is concerned chiefly with adults, and three of them for $2.50, which could hardly be called an exorbitant price, even in the present glutted state of the market for various lecheries.

As a business-getter, the blurbster's effort is admirable; but really this novel is not to be classed as venerated fiction. It is true that three ladies, representing three successive generations, do for a certain commandment, but that is hardly to be reckoned as even a fairly good batting average in these days. And there are various other people in the story who seem to be occupied most of their lives with other varieties of trouble, as, indeed, most people are.

"They Stood to Folly" is another "transition novel," but it is not merely another one, as anyone who knows the work of Ellen Glasgow will readily believe. It is an illuminating study of ancient human nature as revealed under the stress of violent change from the ordered life of a society controlled by tradition to the chaos of the post-war mood. The characters of the tragic-comedy are members of old Virginia family, three generations of which are represented.

There is old Aunt Agatha who, having "stooped to folly" in her youth, is incredible as it seems, has been serving as a horrible example of "ruined womanhood" for a half century. "Poor Aunt Agatha had been a careful guardian of her Victoria was aware that Southern gentlemen of the old tradition visited such rooms only by moonlight." Victoria Littlepage, the virginal-minded mother, represents the outmoded Victorian ideals, one of her great satisfactions being the conviction that Mr. Littlepage, her husband, "never had a lower nature."

As for Mr. Littlepage himself, he had his doubts as to that, though he never confessed as much to anyone save the "dangerous" Mrs. Dalrymple, who was not a ruin by any means, though her sleepings seem to have been innumerable. Mr. Littlepage, in fact, was beginning to have vague doubts about many things. Often, in his musings, he "inquired fearfully if there was something wrong with the past. Was there a fatal flaw even in the Episcopal Church?" Curle, the son, "one of those fortunate natures who live in perfect harmony with the temper and tone of their time, puffed up with optimism and fairly bursting, with public spirit," has leaped in a single season "from genteel privacy to vulgar success," and accordingly "his opinion is eagerly sought by his fellow citizens on every subject from 'the art of advertising' to the value of Christianity as business."

The daughter, Mary Victoria, is the strong-minded, managing woman with a "beautiful soul," who is never unduly swayed by circumstances wrong and who cannot live without "doing good." Her plan for reforming others leads her into marriage with a weakling who, in a fit of wild desperation, deserts her.

Previously he had deserted Mr. Littlepage's secretary, Millie Burden, the third and last of the stooping sorority—and easily the sanest of the lot. Mr. Littlepage's bachelor brother, Marmaduke, the artist, voices the cynically questioning spirit of the day.

It isn't the story in itself that matters so much as the ripe wisdom and shrewd insight of the woman who tells it.

MOCCASSIN TRAIL. By Reed Fulton. (Doubleday.)

Bruce West, an orphan of 15, runs away from his cruel Uncle's plantation in Tennessee and makes his way to St. Louis, where he falls in with the great Kit Carson, then a young man. The two become cronies, and, pursued by the villainous uncle, who has learned that the boy is heir to a sizable legacy, they strike out for Independence and the Santa Fe country.

The boy's legacy is a sum of money hidden in a prairie schooner far out on the plains. The cash and the inevitable girl are located at exactly the same time—which is certainly a good idea—but many terrible adventures befall the heroes before the happy consummation is reached. It's a first-class thriller for movie-minded boys.

SHOW 'EM UP. ANAGRAMS. By John James and Judith West. (Payson and Clarke.)

A new parlor game concerned with the making of appropriate sentences out of names and phrases. For instance, the letters in "Eighteenth Amendment" may be arranged so as to read, "End the gin; tame the men."

Delightful opportunities for malice are afforded in the anagramming of friends' names. The game is said to date back to the time of Ptolemy Philadelphia.

FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION. By Lady Augusta Noel. (Stokes.)

A recent issue in the Rescue Series which is designed to salvage from the literary ruins of the past those forgotten novels that seem to deserve a better fate. "From Generation to Generation," which made a stir in its day, was published in 1879. It is a romance of Scottish life and sets forth the history of two noble families. The author, Lady Noel, was born in 1838 and died in 1902.

Day by Day in the West By O. O. McIntyre

SAN FRANCISCO. Aug. 9. RYAN COBB in a lyrical mood said of San Francisco: "She is the poppy in China's hair."

And that may be why Ryan has not shown up in Los Angeles lately. Rudyard Kipling departing cried: "San Francisco has only one drawback—it's hard to leave."

Indeed almost every visitor has passed over its charming hospitality—its golden radiance. Yet to me its chief lure is in being itself. Where else, for instance, could such cosmopolitanism could one board a dinky, antiquated cable car and so slowly up the as-colding streets? Clipper ship jostles modern liners in the harbor.

It is the last stand too, of the beaming and manefaced Irish cop with the thick brogue and easy going tolerance. In a quick lunch today was a waitress who insisted upon addressing several ladies in the party as "Dear." There are many such familiar gestures winning to dwellers among the stiff necks.

SAN FRANCISCO boasts of the most beautiful women in America. It is largely true but not entirely. Such opinions are individualistic anyway. Almost everyone has a city where feminine pulchritude seems incomparable. My choice, as though anyone cares, is Louisville, Ky.

THE sun here is caressing but rarely stings. Nobody seems to be tanned and a sunstroke is unknown.

A PICTURESQUE throwback to early California days is Mission Dolores, a wistful little adobe structure that has stood for more than 150 years as a romantic reminder that Spain once held this land.

SAN FRANCISCO is accustomed to visiting writers turning rhetorical handlings over its miracles and outside of New York no American city has been so novelized. A companion on the buggy ride over, who had never seen the city before, described it enthusiastically with: "She's a jin dandy!" And threw his hat in the air. Well, he had only had a couple.

CONFRONTING ENGINEERING HEAD

War Secretary Thinks They Are Bigger Than the Panama Canal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON. Aug. 9. The new Chief of Army Engineers, who is yet to be selected to succeed Lieutenant General Edgar Jadwin, will be confronted with problems which Secretary of War Good regards as "much larger" than the construction of the Panama Canal.

In the program developed by the Engineering Corps during Gen. Jadwin's administration, the Secretary sees a "tremendous undertaking" in the work to be done in improving harbors and channels and building and strengthening levees.

An immense outlay will be necessary to make the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers and the inland waterway canals navigable for deep draft vessels, he points out, and the proposed billion-dollar Nicaragua Canal probably will be surveyed under the direction of the new chief.

Contracts already awarded for river and harbor improvement alone total $35,000,000, the largest amount ever undertaken at one time. For flood control the works in the lower Mississippi Valley are receiving an annual appropriation of $30,000,000, with other expenditures for this purpose in other sections.

Levees and revetments on the Missouri River are among the large items contracted for. About $1,000,000 is expended annually for dredging on the Mississippi River north of Cairo, Ill., and probably double this sum on rock blasting and dredging at Hell Gate, New York harbor.

GREEN GRAPE JELLY IS INTRIGUING

Distinguished by a Charming Color and Dainty Piquant Flavor.

Green Grape Jelly is one of the most intriguing of jelly products but it is seldom seen on the home table because so few home cooks know it is one of the most easily made of all the fruit jellies.

Green Grape Jelly. Wash the desired amount of unripe green grapes, put them in a preserving kettle and heat until they can easily be crushed. Add to each four pounds of grapes, one bunch of fresh, well washed mint bruised in a bowl, and cook until the grapes are soft enough to drain.

Turn this into a jelly bag and let it drip, and then measure the amount. Boil the juice and add for each pint, one scant pound of hot sugar and boil for 12 minutes, or until a little of it jellies on a cold plate. Color mint green with vegetable coloring liquid and fill jars.

As the natural color is reddish pink, half of it may be left without coloring, and if part is kept warm, it can be put into glasses in layers alternately with the green jelly. One layer must be nearly set before adding the other.

Preserved Green Grapes.

Cut each grape in half, take out the seeds and when this is done weigh the fruit. To each pound allow a pound of granulated sugar. Put all into a preserving kettle and bring slowly to a boil. Cook until thick, then pour boiling hot into jars and seal.

add the sugar and beaten eggs and cook for five minutes, then add the coffee infusion and the salt. Herr's Market, for 12 years one of the leading groceries in the city, and now located at Kansas and Macklind Avenues, specializes in select meats and vegetables.

A story { with a very happy ending } about YOU an' apples an' two freckled boys

REMEMBER the big, red apples that hung out over the road, the day that Dad took you motoring 'way out in the real country? You know, the time you saw the little pink pigs scampering under the trees?

Well, when those apples got to be as ripe as ripe...they were picked by a man and two freckled boys in blue overalls and big, floppy sun-hats... and they were put into clean, wooden barrels and driven, bumpety bump, over the very same road you were on, to the railroad station.

And, by and by, those apples got to the big, sunny Lippincott kitchen, and there they were pared and cored and cut and washed 'til they looked like a big heap of snow, and smelled like a flower garden.

Then they were put into a great, shining pot, along with lots of fresh, sweet apple juice and real sugar-cane sugar and all sorts of delicious spices from far over the ocean...and they boiled and bubbled and boiled and bubbled until they got all thick and buttery and chocolatey-brown...

And if you go right this minute into the pantry, there you will see these very same apples in a big, glistening glass jar with a picture of a ripe, red apple on the front of it! Lippincott Apple Butter!

And if you ask Mother, she'll spread a big slice of bread with it, thick and smooth, for you to eat, for Mother knows that nothing in all the world is so good for you as the pure, delicious apple butter made by Lippincott.

And that's the end of this story, and a pretty happy end it is—isn't it?

SOME FOODS RICH IN IRON

Such Foods Should Be Included in the Everyday Diet.

The following foods are rich in iron; green vegetables such as spinach and lettuce, dried beans, dates, figs, peaches, eggs, entire wheat, lean beef, lentils, raisins, rye whole barley, prunes and milk.

If foods rich in iron were more generally used, the body would not be likely to get into a condition requiring tonics.

The iron found in eggs, milk and vegetable foods is thought to be more completely assimilated than that found in meat.

Spinach and prunes contain such a large quantity of iron that they are most desirable foods for children.

SAVORY DRESSINGS FOR SUMMER SALADS

A Group of Recipes Which Will Make the Use of Leftovers Easy.

It is almost impossible to think of summer meals without immediately thinking of salad, yet many of us think of salad dressings with perhaps only three kinds in mind —mayonnaise, French and Russian.

These are all good, but like all good things, are apt to become tiresome when served endlessly. Salad dressings may be varied almost indefinitely, and may be quite elaborate or very simple. It is, however, only those kinds that can be quickly made that concern us today.

While there are many kinds of dressings for salads, there are only a few types, and of these French and mayonnaise are by far most popular.

Commercial Mayonnaise.

With such good commercial mayonnaise available, it is really much more convenient to use it than to make the home-made variety.

French Dressing.

Most people make up just enough for the salad they have ready for it, yet it is just as simple to make a larger quantity and store it in the ice box for future use, for it keeps indefinitely.

The quickest way to make it is to pour into a pint-jar one cup of olive or any salad oil, one-fourth cup of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and one and one-half teaspoons salt. One-half teaspoon Worcestershire is an addition that I always make, though it is not an essential. Shake the mixture thoroughly until thick and creamy each time it is used.

The flavoring may be varied by pouring part of the dressing over a cut clove of garlic and letting it stand for 10 minutes before serving. When French dressing is used for fruit salads, sweeten to taste with strained honey and add a little lemon juice.

French dressing is used with plain vegetable salads, with lettuce, romaine, watercress, etc., and as a seasoning for most meat and fish salads.

There are many variations possible, some of those that are most common with the summer vegetables are as follows: Add one teaspoon grated onion and one tablespoon shredded green pepper to three-fourths cup of plain French dressing and serve with shredded new cabbage, with a combination of raw carrots, celery and string beans (the beans are cooked of course), or with salad of left-over fish.

more convenient to use it than to make the home-made variety.

French Dressing.

Most people make up just enough
for the salad they have ready for the French. Add to three-fourths cup of the latter, one hard egg chopped very fine, one spoon minced parsley, one tablespoon onions also chopped fine, one sliced beets, with hearts of tomatoes, cucumbers and green

SWEET PICKLED PEARS

Finished Product as Satisfaction
Though It Were Cooked.

These are put up without cooking at all and are more choice than the usual cooked pears.

The best variety to use is white clingstone. Do not waste the fruit carefully to off the fuzz.

Stick a dozen whole pears one each and put in a mouthed stone jar.

Fill the jar, then pour over best vinegar obtainable, either cider or white wine vinegar.

Let them stand three days on the fruit under, then drain off vinegar, bring to a boil and over again and let stand another three days and repeat.

The third time add one-half pound of sugar to each pint of vinegar and boil well, strain and pour over fruit scalding hot. Cover jar closely and let stand three or four weeks. The peaches will then be ready for the table and very delicious.

We Baked It For Your Children To Make "Balanced Diet" Easy

FRANKLY we prefer to sell Wonder Bread in homes where there are children.

Nine out of ten, so prominent diicians tell us, need its extra carbohydrate content.

Hence we often devote entire advertisements such as this to mothers, telling them specifically what Wonder Bread will do.

What Dietitians Say

It is, without the slightest question, the most economical known source of carbohydrates. And carbohydrates, as you already know, are vital to health.

Especially is this so with children. Active work or play rapidly burns up body
tissues. Unless these tissues are replaced,
"Carbohydrate Starvation" sets in. List-
lessness is what you see.

Wonder Bread, being rich in carbohydrates, combats this condition remarkably.

When digested, it gives off heat in the form of energy exactly as coal gives off heat.

Thus your child often discovers a new
rest for play.

work or play rapidly burns up body
tissues. Unless these tissues are replaced,
"Carbohydrate Starvation" sets in. List-
lessness is what you see.

Wonder Bread, being rich in carbohy-
drates, combats this condition remarkably.

When digested, it gives off heat in the form of energy exactly as coal gives off heat.
It helps establish that vital "energy reserve."

Thus your child often discovers a new
rest for play.

SWEET PICKLED PEACHES

Finished Product as Satisfactory as Though It Were Cooked.

These are put up without any cooking at all and are more delicious than the usual cooked ones.

The best variety to use is the white clingstone. Do not pare but wipe the fruit carefully to clean off the fuzz.

Stick a dozen whole cloves in each one and put in a wide-mouthed stone jar.

Fill the jar, then pour over the best vinegar obtainable, either pure cider or white wine vinegar.

Let them stand three days with a plate or weight on top to keep the fruit under, then drain off the vinegar, bring to a boil and pour over again and let stand another three days and repeat.

The third time add one-half pound of sugar to each pint of vinegar and boil well, skim and pour over fruit scalding hot. Cover jar closely and let stand three or four weeks. The peaches will then be ready for the table and very delicious.

Lunch

Tomorrow at noon, enjoy a nice big bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes with fruit and cool milk or cream. Prepare it in a jiffy at home. Or order it in any cafeteria or restaurant. Kellogg's are crisp and refreshing on a warm day. What's more—they actually make you cooler. They're so easy to digest, they supply nourishment without "heating" the body.

Kellogg's
CORN
FLAKES

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are ideal for summer lunches, suppers or breakfasts. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Children delight in their crispness and flavor. It's a splendid way to get them to take more milk.

Kellogg's Corn Flakes have that original "wonder" flavor no one has ever duplicated. Always extra crisp.

A Thought for the Day.
When you make blanc mange or bolled custard if you will mix the cornstarch and sugar together before adding the liquid you will find it much easier to have a smooth mixture. The cornstarch and sugar may be stirred immediately into the scalded milk, and if they are thoroughly blended first, and if the milk is constantly stirred, while they are added, the pudding will not lump.

MAKE SAVORY PICKLES
WITHOUT COOKING

These Old Favorites Have Won Their Place by Long Usage.

It is positively fascinating to put up pickles and there is scarcely a month in the whole year when it is not possible to obtain some vegetable or fruit to preserve through the pickling method.

Forward-looking housewives will find it expedient to start putting up relishes and pickles right now for there are very many kinds of these products which do not require cooking, the pickling mixture being a sufficient preservative in itself to insure the fruit or vegetables against bacteria.

The appended directions will be found very satisfactory in making uncooked pickles and relishes for winter use.

Tomato Relish.
(Uncooked.)

Two quarts ripe tomatoes, two cups vinegar, three bell peppers, two medium onions, one-fourth cup cabbage shredded, one-half teaspoon each cayenne, cloves, mustard seeds, one teaspoon celery salt, eight tablespoons salt.

Peel the tomatoes by first immersing in boiling water. Chop all but tomatoes first. Then add them last and chop quite fine. Mix with vinegar, salt and spices and seal in hot sterilized jars.

Pickled Corn.
(Uncooked.)

Use a stone jar, holding as many gallons as you wish. Cut white tender corn from the cob. Put an inch layer of salt in the jar, then an inch of corn and so on until the jar is filled. Put a plate on top and weight down. It will need no more attention. Before using corn let stand in cold water overnight. Next morning pour off water and add fresh water. Season to taste and cook 10 minutes.

Beet Relish.
(Uncooked.)

Here is a beet relish that may be kept all winter and yet entails no leaning over a hot stove to make. The ingredients for one gallon of the relish are:

Take two quarts chopped, boiled beets, two quarts chopped raw cabbage, two cups sugar, one cup grated fresh horseradish, one tablespoon pepper and two level tablespoons salt.

Cover with cold vinegar and store in a stone jar, or pack in fruit jars and seal cold. In serving the relish the extra vinegar may be poured off.

Pickled Peppers.
(Uncooked.)

You may select either the hot or mild mango peppers, according to taste. Cut off the tops and remove the insides. Let stand in salt water for two hours or more. Then drain and stuff with finely chopped, salted cabbage to which has been added some white mustard seed.

If you are using the mild peppers you may like to add a few bits of dried red pepper pods.

Press the cabbage into the peppers firmly, replace the tops and pack the peppers in layers in stone jars. Place a few strips of horseradish root on top and cover with cold cider vinegar.

Turn a plate over the peppers and weight down so that the peppers will remain immersed in the vinegar. In three or four weeks the peppers will be ready for use and they may be kept throughout the winter.

HOT WEATHER FOOD LORE
Careful Attention to Food is a Wise Precaution in Summer.

The summer diet should be made up of foods which do not unduly tax the digestive system, and that at the same time supply ample nutriment to meet the daily needs of the body. Less heat producing food is required in warm weather than in cold, but it must be remembered that the energy foods (which are also heat producing foods) cannot be dispensed with or cut down too sharply without impairing general health.

It is, however, wise to select those things which supply the easiest of food in the way that is easiest of digestion.

The energy foods are the starches, sugars, fats and proteins.

In the summertime it is best to get our supply of energy from fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs, some of the cereals, fish, the lean meats.

Fish, eggs and milk are good body builders as well as energy foods. And this is as necessary to provide as the daily wear and tear of the body as well as its growth must be taken care of.

fruit and whether you have the time.

It will be helpful to know that from one bushel of peaches you should get approximately 24 quarts of canned fruit. The exact quantity will depend some upon the size, quality and variety of the fruit.

Only ripe, firm fruit should be used for canning.

Like other fruit, peaches hold an important place in the diet.

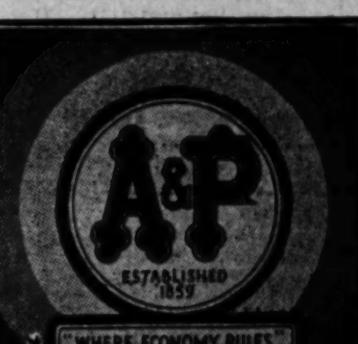

They supply mineral salts, acids and sugars. They help to regulate the body processes. They are among the cooling summer foods.

We have talked so often about using foods in season. This will remind you that peaches are ripe.

JELLED EGG SALAD

This Type of Dish Fits Into the Summertime Menu.

Boil six eggs for 10 minutes, then cool and peel. Make an aspic jelly mixture from canned consomme or bouillon, or from bouillon cubes dissolved in hot water, using three to a pint of water. If the canned soup is used, dilute it with one-half cup of water to each can of soup. Add to three cups of the prepared liquid, one tablespoon of lemon juice, two whole cloves and a thin strip of lemon rind. Heat to the boiling point, strain and add two tablespoons of gelatine that have been dissolved for 10 minutes in one-fourth cup of cold water.

Pour a thin layer in the bottom of a bread pan and set aside to harden. Then place the eggs at even distances on the aspic jelly, pour the rest of the mixture over them and set aside to harden. It is usually best to make this dish the day before it is to be used, or in the morning for the night.

When ready to serve, turn carefully out on a platter, garnish with shredded lettuce, olives, curled celery and mayonnaise. In serving cut so as to allow one egg for each portion.

Concerning Butter.
Butter has a tendency to absorb foreign flavors, and therefore, in order to overcome this difficulty, extreme care is used in the handling. Butter should not be placed near highly flavored foods. It should always be covered carefully and placed in a crock or better still, if carton butter is used, return it to the carton, wrap carefully and place in the refrigerator.

REFRESHING DRINKS
FOR SUMMER DAYSMany Sources From Which to Draw in Preparing These Beverages.Parisian, Roman and Oriental ladies, if history, current and ancient is to be believed, have ever had a penchant for serving their guests, enticing cold beverages.The following directions reveal how several of these concoctions are prepared.

Roman Punch.

Take one-half cup strong tea infusion, one cup orange juice, two cups sugar, one-half cup lemon juice and four cups water.Make a syrup by boiling sugar and water 20 minutes, add fruit juices and tea and freeze. Serve in punch cups or frappe glasses.

Orange Punch.

Take six oranges, two fresh pears, one-half cup powdered sugar, one-fourth cup finely chopped fresh mint and one-half cup whipping cream.Pare and slice the oranges, reserving all juice that escaped. Cutpears in slices and mix with oranges. Divide into six equal portions and place in sherbet glasses.
Mix the juice that has escaped from oranges, mint, sugar, and the fruit and pour over the fruit. Set in a cold place until ready to serve.
Serve topped with a spoonful of the cream beaten until stiff and sweetened with 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar.

Hawaiian Tea.

Pour boiling water over tea which has been tied in a muslin bag; let stand five minutes. Remove bag; make syrup by boiling together for 10 minutes in a covered kettle sugar and one quart water, add to hot tea. Cool, add pineapple and finely cut cherries.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Fussy Appetites Necessitate Careful Selection And Serving of Foods.

A spell of torrid weather dulls appetites, sharpens tempers and puts a strain on the nerves. Food continues to be a necessity, but unless it is appetizingly seasoned, possesses cooling qualities and is daintily served it will probably be neglected. And you will undoubtedly hear much about it.

While it is perhaps a bit more difficult to plan attractive meals in midsummer, it is by no means an impossible task, and it can be much simplified if the following facts are kept in mind:

First, plan for simplicity in the menu and in the serving; next see that special attention is given to seasoning and to masking each portion of food as daintily and as attractive as possible; third, be sure that the table is daintily set and the appointments immaculate.

Linens, table runners or small doilies make laundry work simpler and can be easily kept clean, therefore they are quite popular for all summer meals.

In planning meals and selecting the foods to be used, see to it that a good variety of fruits and vegetables are included—try to plan for at least two different kinds of fruit and two vegetables each day.

Salads offer endless possibilities and when properly made are sure to be tempting. And by properly made, I mean crisp lettuce, cold filling, cold plates and dainty appetizers.

Cold dishes are in order for hot days, but very often a cup of clear hot soup garnished with a thin slice of lemon and a sprinkling of minced parsley will prove just the needed spur to make the meal enjoyable.

Use this very successfully with a platter of cold assorted meats, crisp potato chips, a jellied vegetable relish, a plain, crisp green salad and a fruit dessert.

On the other hand if the main course is hot—say chops or a planked steak or a delicious curry—you will find that a slice of honeydew or cantaloupe melon sprinkled with lemon juice and finely chopped mint and served well chilled will work wonders in stimulating appetites.

In the group of menus that have been planned for this week the vagaries of hot weather appetites have been kept in mind and the meals planned accordingly. Contrasts in flavor and texture are there, simplicity in combinations and balance in food values. The rest depends on you.

Canned boned chicken mixed with diced celery, sliced olives and garnished with hard boiled egg is used for Sunday night. However, diced leftover veal may be substituted for the chicken very nicely. The remains of the veal roast are ground up and used to stuff the peppers served on Tuesday night. Stuffed peppers, squash and tomatoes are all excellent mid-summer dishes and offer numberless flavor combinations according to the filling used.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY SUES FOR $621,000 TAXES

Officials and Civic Leaders Among Those Who Failed to Pay 1928 Levy.

A first group of tax lien foreclosure suits, in an attempt to collect more than $621,000 in back taxes and penalties, has been filed by officials of St. Clair County, Illinois. Real estate in East St. Louis alone owes $388,634, more than half of the total delinquency, according to the figures of Ross C. Adams, County Clerk.

Eleven suits to date have been filed in the Circuit Court for amounts that aggregate about $3000. Additional suits will be filed until court action has been taken against all delinquents. The tax books in the office of County Collector Martin Schipper show that the City Commissioner of East St. Louis, two members of the East St. Louis Park Board, two local banking companies, several political leaders and a state official residing in East St. Louis have failed to pay their personal property taxes for 1928. In addition there are many delinquent attorneys, physicians, dentists and real estate operators. Officers of several civic organizations, including those engaged in campaigning against inefficient government, have also failed to pay their personal property taxes.

Certain pieces of property in the lowlands near East Carondelet have 46 years of taxes and penalties standing against them. In some cases the property is described inaccurately and in other cases the owners are unknown. One piece of East St. Louis property alone has accumulated against it $6,878 in back taxes and penalties.

In Centerville Township, which includes a large part of the Aluminaum Ore Co. and the group of plants at Monsanto, Ill., the total amount due is $22,478. In St. Louis, locale of the National Stockyards, the amount is $52,757. In Canevin Township, where there are several industrial plants, the amount owed in back taxes and penalties is $29,797.

At the 1928 tax sale, about $70,000 worth of general taxes were sold, and about $40,000 in local improvement taxes. The delinquent personal taxes on the books of St. Clair County today amount to about $100,000.

The personal property tax for St. Clair County is $4.84 for every $100 of valuation. Of this amount, 62 cents goes to the county. The remainder goes variously to the State of Illinois, the school districts, the cities and villages, the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, and the East St. Louis Park District.

TELLS OF $10,000 OFFER FOR 'RIGHT' DEMPSEY REFEREE

Head of National Boxing Association Says Money Was Proffered Before Last Bout With Tunney.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The controversy over the refereeing of the Dempsey-Tunney world heavyweight championship fight at Soldier Field in September, 1927, today has been revived with the assertion of Paul Prehn, president of the National Boxing Association, that he was offered $10,000 to urge a certain referee for the bout.

Prehn, who recently was ousted as chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, said he was approached by a gambler, whose name he refused to divulge, who made the offer, saying he wished to assure himself that the third man in the ring would not be pro-Tunney. The man was not selected, Prehn said.

Prehn added he was certain Dempsey had nothing to do with the offer.

"Dempsey probably never heard of the offer, and I am certain no member of his camp was involved," Prehn said.

Decline to Name Man.

He related that the man put a $1000 bill on his desk and had told him nine other notes of the same denomination would be his, if he acceded to the request. Prehn also declined to name the man whom the gambler wished to serve as referee of the fight.

Prehn said he immediately rejected the offer and ordered the man from his office. He then told the other members of the commission what had occurred, he said.

He avowed the proffer was made by gamblers who wished to protect their Dempsey wagers, fearing that some of the eligibles might lean to Tunney if the fight were close.

The eligibles mentioned before the fight as possibilities as referee were Dave Barry, who finally was selected; Dave Miller, well known referee; Joe Chojnaki, former heavyweight fighter who now is in the theatrical business in Chicago; Jimmy Gardner, former bantam-weight boxer; "Little" Bill Collins, long identified with boxing here, and Tommy Thomas, another former boxer.

Barry "flabbergasted."

Prehn also insisted that Dave Barry, who became famous for the fight, was on the canvas when Tunney was on edge that he was to referee, in fact, Prehn said. Barry was "flabbergasted and turned pale when I handed him the assignment." The assignment was made, Prehn said, after principals had entered the ring.

Prehn related the incident yesterday in telling of the troubles encountered by the Illinois State Athletic Commission which he headed until his resignation, and those of Al Mann and Sam Luzzo, recently were requested and resolved by Gov. Emmerson.

PAID $75 FOR BEATING GIRL FROM ORPHANS' HOME

Massas Farmer Says He Only Slapped Her When She Wouldn't Mind.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HIAWATHA, Kan., Aug. 9.—W. E. Jones, farmer living near Netawaka, was fined $75 in Justice Court here yesterday on a charge of cruelly whipping Clara Gordon, 8 years old, whom he had taken from the orphans' home in Atchison with a view of adopting her.

Jones, a middle-aged man who married last December, kept the girl at his home three weeks.

When she was returned to the orphanage the matron found marks of a beating on her body and the orphanage physician made an examination. The girl had a severe bruise on the back of her head, her mouth was cut and her back, legs and face were scarred. Jones had beaten her with a stick, the girl said, once while she was on the way back to the orphanage with him in his car.

"The girl wouldn't mind us," Jones told the Court, "so I slapped her with my open hand. Marks on her face were caused by sores they broke out soon after she was taken to my home."

MISSING BROKER EXPelled FROM REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

Belleville Dealers Take Action Against Walter J. Ruediger, Who Failed for $10,000.

Walter J. Ruediger, Belleville real estate and loan broker who has been missing since July 10, was expelled from the Belleville Real Estate Exchange yesterday for "acts unbecoming a realtor."

Following Ruediger's disappearance it was found that he had failed for approximately $10,000.

Two suits to recover money invested by him have been filed in St. Clair County Circuit Court, one yesterday by Louis Hertel for $3000, another on the day of Ruediger's disappearance by Mrs. Clara M. Prehn for $2000.

Ruediger was prominent in the civic and business affairs of Belleville and was well known in East St. Louis and Alton, where he had business dealings.

Besides forfeiting Ruediger's membership, the Real Estate Exchange went on record as favoring a State law requiring loan brokers to make full settlement with all concerned when a payment is made on a mortgage.

'FIORETTA' COMPOSER KILLS SELF WITH KNIFE

Romilly Johnson Found Dead in Bed at Father's Home in Lynn, Mass.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LYNN, Mass., Aug. 9.—Romilly Johnson, 46 years old, a composer, son of Attorney Benjamin N. Johnson of this city, was found dead in bed with a knife in his heart yesterday at the home of his father, where he had been visiting for several weeks. He had killed himself.

Since he had been at his father's home he had been suffering from melancholia and had been under the care of specialists.

The composer was born in Lynn May 14, 1882. He attended the public schools and prepared for Bowdoin College at the Hopkins Preparatory School. He devoted his life to music and art, and had divided his time in recent years between Europe and New York.

He wrote several symphonies and sonatas, also light opera and musical comedies.

Among his compositions are the score for the musical comedy extravaganza "Floretta," "My Dream of You," "Wash-Day," "Ave Maria," "Ninetta" and "Laddie, and Lassie."

Recently Johnson was named in a suit by Dorothy Knapp, who sued Earl Carroll, producer of the Vanities. Miss Knapp, who was receiving $1,000 a week, was dismissed from the cast. Johnson was one of the composers of the score for the musical comedy and was drawing a royalty. Because of that he, Carroll, the financial backers, and others interested in the show were sued for a large amount of money. The suit has not been tried.

Johnson is survived by his father, two brothers, Benjamin N. Johnson Jr. and Richard, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Johnson Charles.

POLAND DENIES AIDING IN LITHUANIAN PLOT

Answers, in Note to League Charges Based on Assault on Premier Waldemars.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Aug. 9.—The Polish Government, through its delegate to the League of Nations, has handed a note to the Secretary-General of the League answering the note sent to the League by Premier Waldemars of Lithuania purporting to show that the Polish Government or its agents had some connection with the attempt on his life May 6.

The Polish note states an answer is being made to the Lithuanian note solely out of respect for the League of Nations.

It maintained that Poland had given sufficient proof of pacific intentions regarding Lithuania and protest against the note.

The Polish note is considered to prove in detail that the allegations of Premier Waldemars are groundless.

Relations between Poland and Lithuania have been strained for some time because of the controversy over possession of the city of Vilna, claimed by the Lithuanians, but now a part of Poland. The matter came before the League of Nations several times and efforts to restore normal relations between the two countries have been in progress. The Lithuanians have concluded the Polish has designs on Lithuanian territory.

An effort to assassinate Premier Waldemars took place in May. He escaped but a nephew was killed.

Shouse remarked that Pollard "is not the choice on any small group which seeks through devious combination to dictate the --ty policy of honest men and women."

FIRST POISON LIQUOR MURDER SENTENCE STAYED BY COURT

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, Ill., Aug. 10.—A writ of supersedeas granted by Justice Clyde E. Stone of the Supreme Court has placed the case of John Cox of Vermilion, Ill., the first man to be convicted in Illinois of murder for sale of poisoned liquor, in the hands of the State. It saved Cox from starting his 25-year term in the penitentiary.

The writ will place Cox's case before the Supreme Court at its October term. Meantime Cox will remain in the Fulton County Jail, as the Justice refused to admit him to bail.

His conviction will be attacked on 27 assigned errors. Counsel contends that admission of dying declaration of Lantz Hiltz, by his wife, was improper. Cox was charged with murder in connection with the death of his brother, Marshall Easley, a farmer, lived near Vermont.

CHAPTER 40.

MURDER AVENGED.

THEY had stopped for refreshment at a little ale-house—Master Oldcraft and his comrades, Bob and Tom, gulped their ale while the wretched prisoner drooped quiescent in his bonds; indeed so still and silent was he that Master Oldcraft sought to rouse him with dexterous flick of his horse whip.

"So—you'd try to play off your devil's tricks on Titus—he?" And again the whip cracked but still the captive stirred not nor spoke.

"I don't 'ear you, Titus," quoth Bob.

"The villain's a-swoon, Titus," said Tom.

"Then heave you bucket of water over him!" said Master Oldcraft.

Hob caught up the bucket forthwith and deluged the hapless wretch.

A gasp . . . a groan . . . Sir Richard stared into the merciless smiling visage of Titus Oldcraft.

"Sir," quoth Master Oldcraft. "You robbed me once—me, Titus Ay. You did so—ye've made it, sir. You set Titus in the stocks Ay. You did so—ye can't forget, sir? Well, sir, Titus is a-going to set your fine-gentleman's neck in a noose, pretty soon, sir. And now, sir, if you're quite ready, we'll get a-moving."

ATCHED by awed landlord and one or two gaping rustics.

Master Oldcraft and his followers got to horse and trotted off, their silent prisoner jolting helpless in their midst.

Evening was near—the wooded uplands stood dark against the sunset, reddish flame. A vivid, far-flung splendor touched all things with a strange glory; it filled the narrow, winding road, the very dust glowed pink—it burned on the tree, branch and twig.

A small, neat gentleman in black and silver stood beside the way, his arms folded and head bent like some philosopher lost in profound abstraction of thought.

"We shall be in before the light fails us," said Mr. Oldcraft, turning to fit gloating eyes upon his prey.

"And with your man, too," quipped Bob.

"Ay—when I go after a man, I get a man. Titus don't fail."

"Lookes' yonder," quoth Tom, pointing suddenly. "Won't to do? Oo's 'im?" said there.

Now even as he spoke and pointed, the tall, sober-clad gentleman moved slowly to the middle of the road and, halting there, stood with arms still folded, watching their approach.

"Out o' the road there!" cried Oldcraft imperiously.

The stranger neither moved nor spoke, but stood there, arms crossed, booted legs firm planted.

"Ride the fool down!" cried Oldcraft, and spurred his animal to faster pace and then, as suddenly, reined in again for the small, slim gentleman, uncrossing his arms showed two purposeful hands, each of which grasped a leveled pistol.

"Eh, what's this?" demanded Oldcraft, blanching. "We're officers o' the law. What's this?"

"Your bargers—all o' em!" answered the stranger, head still lowered. "Throw me your pistols!"

A moment's gaping dismay—the stranger took a slow pace forward, eyes staring behind those unavering mien, and then four pistols clattered into the dust.

"Now, d'you—! all o' ye dogs!"

"Why—what more?" quivered Oldcraft, staring at this ominous figure with growing apprehension.

"We—we are officers o' the—"

"Dismount! Down, ye dogs!"

Speechless and scrambling they alighted, all three.

"D' ye know me, Titus?"

smokes," another member, Mrs. W. F. Grower, rejoined, "and she will go where it is convenient to do so. This club is modern, sort of half-way between an old-time women's club and an up-to-date sports club."

Mrs. Grower says she does not smoke; thinks it doesn't look nice, but believes each woman has the right to decide for herself.

Whether it is pretty or healthy, the question has an important and economic side, which may decide it.

"We have to rent the club to outside organizations to help make up the debt of $450,000," Mrs. Grower pointed out. "If we can smoking we will lose this patronage, which we need very much."

AND WONDER PAN ROLLS

By Marguerite M. Marshall.

NOT A CHANCE!

If it were not men, you MIGHT think something would happen! You might really believe that, behind the smoke of discussion, blazed the fire of determination to DO something about it. You might look for a long-needed change for the better—if it were not men, but the conventional shooting were not about the unhealthy, the uncomfortable, the pretentious absurdities they wear in hot weather, AND THE CLOTHES THEY'LL KEEP RIGHT ON WEARING!

CHAPTER XVI.

One part of the trench I suddenly run into Himmelstoss. We dive into the same dug-out. Breathless, we are all lying one beside the other waiting for the charge.

When we run out again, although I am very excited, I suddenly think: "Where's Himmelstoss?" Quickly I jump back into the dug-out and find him with a small scratch lying in a corner pretending to be wounded. His face looks sulky. He is in a panic; he is new to it too. But it makes me mad that the young recruits should be out there and he here.

"Get out!" I spit.
He does not stir, his lips quiver, his moustache twitches.

"Out!" I repeat.
He draws up his legs, crouches back against the wall, and shows his teeth like a cur.

I seize him by the arm and try to pull him up. He barks.
That is too much for me. I grab him by the neck and shake him like a sack, his head jerks from side to side.

"You lump, will you get out—you hound, you skunk, sneak out of it, would you?" His eye becomes glassy, I knock his head against the wall — "You cow" — I kick him in the ribs — "You swine" — I push him toward the door and shove him out head first.

Another wave of our attack has just come up. A Lieutenant is with him. He sees us and yells: "Forward, forward, join in, follow." And the word of command does what all my banging could not. Himmelstoss hears the order, looks round him as if awoken, and follows on.

I come after and watch him go over. Once more he is the smart Himmelstoss of the parade ground, he has outstripped the Lieutenant and is far ahead.

Bombardment, barrage, curtain-fire, mines, gas, tanks, machine guns, hand grenades — words, words, but they hold the horror of the world.

Our faces are encrusted, our thoughts are devastated. We are weary to death; when the attack comes we shall have to strike many of the men with our fists to waken them and make them come with us—our eyes are burnt, our hands are torn, our knees bleed, our elbows are raw.

How long has it been? Weeks—months—years? Only days. We see time pass in the colorless faces of the dying, we crave food into us, we run, we throw, we shoot, we kill, we lie about, we are feeble and spent, and nothing supports us but the knowledge that there are still feeler, still more spent, still more helpless ones there who, with staring eyes, look upon us as gods that escape death many times.

In the following of rest we teach them: "There, see that wasgut, that's a mortar coming. Keep down, it will go clean over. But if it comes this way, then run for it. You can't run from a mortar."

We sharpen their ears to the machine gun, hardly audible buzz of the smaller shells that are not so easily distinguished. They must pick them out from the general din by their insect-like hum—we explain to them that these are far more dangerous than the big ones that can be heard long beforehand.

We show them how to take cover from aircraft, how to simulate a dead man when one is overrun in an attack, how to time hand-grenades so that they explode half a second before hitting the ground; we teach them to fling themselves into holes as quick as lighting before the shells with instantaneous fuses; we show them how to clean up a trench with a handful of bombs; we explain the difference between the fuse-length of the enemy bombs and our own; we put them wise to the sound of gas shells—show them all the tricks that can save them from death.

They listen, they are docile—but when it begins again, in their excitement they do everything wrong.

Hale Westhus drag off with a great wound in his back through which the lung pulses at every breath. I can only press his hand: "It's all up, Paul!" he groans and bites his arm because of the pain.

We see men living with their shells blown open; we see soldiers run with their two feet cut off, they stagger on their splintered stumps into the next shell-hole; a lance-corporal crawls a mile and half on his hands dragging his smashed knee after him; another goes to the dressing-station and over his clasped hands bulge his intestines; we see men without mouths, without jaws, without faces; we find one man who has held the artery of his arm in his teeth for two hours in order not to bleed to death. The sun goes down, night comes, the shells.

We have been relieved. The wheels roll beneath us, we stand dully, and when the call "Mind-wire" comes, we bend our knees.

It was summer when we came up, the trees were still green, now it is autumn and the night is gray and wet. The lorries stop, we climb out—a confused heap, a remnant of many names. On either side stand people, dark, calling out the numbers of the regiments, the companies. And at each call a little group separates itself off, a small handful of dirty, pale soldiers, a dreadfully small remnant.

Now someone is calling the number of our company, it is, yes, the company-commander, he has got one too, his arm is in a sling. We go over to him and I recognize Kat and Albert; we stand together, lean against each other, and look at one another.

And we hear the number of our company called again and again. I come after and watch him go over. Once more he is the smart Himmelstoss of the parade ground, he has outstripped the Lieutenant and is far ahead.

CHAPTER XVII.

The terror of the front sinks deep down when we turn our backs upon it; we make grim, coarse jests about it; that keeps us from going mad; as long as we take it that way we maintain our own resistance.

But we do not forget. It's all about that they put in the war-news about the good humour of the troops, how they are arranging dances almost before they are out of the front-line. We don't act like that because we are in a good humour; we are in a good humour because otherwise we should be out of the front-line. We don't act like that because we are in a good humour; we are in a good humour because otherwise we should be out of the front-line. We don't act like that because we are in a good humour; we are in a good humour because otherwise we should be out of the front-line.

Then Leer and Tjaden stroll up; they look at the poster and immediately the conversation becomes smutty. Leer is the first of our class to run wild, and he gave stirring details of it. After his fashion he enjoys himself over the picture and Tjaden supports him.

And this I know; all these things that now, while we are still in the war, sink down in us like a stone, after the war we shall waken again, and then shall begin the disentanglement of life and death.

The days, the weeks, the years out here shall come back again and our dead comrades shall stand up again and march with us our heads shall be clear, we shall have a purpose, and so we shall march, our dead comrades beside us, the years at the front behind us:—again whom, against whom?

Some time ago there was an army theater in these parts. Coloured posters of the performances are still sticking on board. With wide eyes Leer and I stand in front of it. We can hardly credit that such things still exist. A girl in a light summer dress, with a hand-painted belt about her hips. She is standing with one hand on a railing, and with the other she holds a straw hat. She wears white stockings and white shoes, fine buckles shoes with high heels. Behind her smiles a blue lake with white horses, at the side is a bright bay. She is a lovely girl with a delicate nose, red lips, and slender legs, wonderfully clean and well cared for, she certainly bathes twice a day and never has any dirt under her nails. At most perhaps a bit of sand from the houses in which we are billeted lie near the canal. On the other side of the canal there are ponds flanked with poplars; on the other side of the canal there are houses, too.

The houses on our side have been abandoned. On the other side, though, one occasionally sees inhabitants.

In the evening we go swimming. Three women come strolling down the bank. They walk slowly and do not look away.

Leer calls out to them. They laugh and stop to watch us. We fling remarks at them in broken French, anything that comes into our heads, hastily and all jumbled together, anything to detain them.

They are not especially wonderful, but then there are such to be seen around here.

There is one slim little blonde. Her teeth gleam when she laughs. She has a slender figure, and her dress swings loosely about her figure. Although the water is cold, we are very joyful and do our best to interest them so they will stay.

Leer drops on his sack of straw and smokes. Once he wakes up and grins so craftily that we are alarmed and begin to think he is cheating. Then he drops back again and sleeps on.

We eat and get hold of a whole army loaf and wrap it up in our towels. The cigarettes we put in too, as well as three good ratings of liver sausage that were issued to us this evening. That makes a decent present.

grand malheur — pauvres garçons —

I hold her tightly and press my lips into the palm of her hand. Her fingers close round my face. Close above me are her bewilderment eyes, the soft brown of her skin and her red lips. Her mouth speaks words I do not understand. Nor do I fully understand her eyes; they seem to say more than I anticipated when we came here.

There are other rooms adjoining. I see Leer has made a great hit with the blonde. And he knows it, too.

The little blonde contractor her brows when she is thinking; but when she talks they are still. And often the sound does not quite become a word but suffocates or floats away over me half finished; an arch, a pathway, a comet. What have I known of it—what do I know of it? The words of this foreign tongue, that I hardly understand, they caress me to a quietness in which the room grows dim, and dissolves in the half light, and only the face above me lives and is clear.

"How various is a face; but an hour ago it was strange and now it is touched with a tenderness that comes, not from it, but out of the night, the world and the blood, all these things seem to shine in it together. The objects in the room are touched by it and transformed.

So, after a time we find ourselves reassembled again. Leer is in high spirits. We pull on our boots and take our leave warmly.

The rustling poplars loom large in the darkness. The moon floats in the heavens and in the waters of the canal. We do not run, we walk beside one another in long strides.

"That was worth a ration-loaf," says Leer.

I cannot trust myself, I am not in the least happy.

Then we hear footsteps and a dog barks behind a shrub.

The steps come nearer, close by us. We see a soldier, in boots, just like ourselves; he has a package under his arm, and gallops onward. He has disappeared already.

We laugh. In the morning he will curse us.

Unobserved, we arrive again at our sacks of straw.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

TROUSER SKIRTS
STILL HANG ON

WOMEN have not yet seen the last of trouser skirts. Like the melody that lingered on, they keep asserting themselves when and where least expected.

Half the big dressmakers of Paris have sponsored them in one form or another and at one time or another. Each time a new designer takes them up women make a note of it, and then forget all about trouser skirts until they see the next pair. I begin to look forward.

A big Rue de la Paix house is the latest sponsor of jupe-culottes. They are showing them there as foundations for house gowns, dishabille and evening frocks with lace and chiffon overskirts.

A mod. with black satin trouser foundation, and black lace over-dress with long sleeves, is said by its designer to be having quite a success.

For every copy of the dress ordered with the original trouser skirt foundation, however, four are ordered with undivided skirt.

Many of the most successful ready pajama suits have divided skirts instead of the more usual trousers. Of medium length they have the appearance of narrow skirts when the wearer is not in motion.

Other models have trousers with conventionally tight tops and flared legs which simulate ankle long skirts flaring suddenly below the knee.

The Correct Time

Watchmakers tell us that clocks and watches should be wound at the same time each week or day if they are expected to maintain correct time. It is never good to wind them a little at a time. Establish a time to wind your clocks and watches and see how much more reliable they are.

WALL STREET STOCKS MEET NEW BUYING, SELL HIGHER

Nearly One-Half of the Ground Lost in Sweeping Reaction Is Recovered — Rally Holds to Close.

VIEW ON CREDIT SITUATION CHANGE

Rebound Receives Considerable Impetus From Record-Breaking Six-Months' Earnings of Class 1 Rails.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Nearly one-half of the ground lost in yesterday's sweeping reaction in stock prices was recovered today in a rally which followed through to the close of the market. Scores of issues closed two to nearly 10 points higher, and one rallied 20 1/2 points, with relatively few active shares showing recession at the close. Total sales fell short of 1,300,000 shares, which was fairly heavy for a mid-summer Saturday.

Mature reflection of the action of Federal Reserve authorities in raising the New York Bank rate from 5 to 6 per cent, which precipitated yesterday's decline wiping out more than $2,000,000,000 in quoted values, led to a rather general belief that it would cause no unusual disturbance to the credit situation. In fact, many bankers and brokers believed it would narrow the spread which has existed in the last few weeks between the bank and open market rates, probably bringing the latter downward.

Rail Earnings Factor.

The rally received considerable impetus from the record-making six months' earnings report of Class 1 carriers. Net income in that period totalled $563,247,000, an increase of $10,192,000, or 21 per cent above the same period last year, and from the sharp gain in automobile registrations in the same period. The monthly tonnage report of the United States Steel Corporation, showing a reduction of 168,723 tons in unfilled orders, came too late to have any market effect, but it was about in line with Wall Street's expectations.

Auburn Auto, which dropped 13 1/2 points yesterday, rallied 20 1/2 points today, closed with net gain of 3 1/2 after setting a new high record. Only a sprinkling of other issues were able to make up all of yesterday's declines, although gains of 2 to 8 points were quite common.

U. S. Steel common, which closed 7 1/2 points lower yesterday at 213 1/2, rallied 4 1/2 points to 218. Covering Made Easy.

Selling which carried stocks off so sharply on Friday was comprised largely of liquidation for the account of nervous traders who interpreted the rise in the rediscountrate here as likely to prove a bearish influence for the immediate future at least. Undoubtedly there was plenty of selling for speculative account prompted by the same belief, but the absence of any semblance of vigorous rally in closing dealings was indicative of the fact that selling, represented largely the letting go of long holdings. Such liquidation naturally afforded shorts an opportunity to cover where desired without bidding against each other for their needs. Had selling been predominantly for short account a strong rally would very likely have marked final dealings.

Margin Calls Sent Out.

As usual, following a break such as that experienced yesterday, margin clerks worked well into the night, bringing customers' accounts down to date, and dispatching calls for additional funds were the occasion required it. Calling for margin was rather heavy, but the action of the market indicated that the response had been satisfactory, and that in such instances where additional margin funds requested were not forthcoming, delinquents received something of a break from the improved tone of the market during today's short session.

Foreign Exchange moved within narrow and irregular limits. Sterling cables hovering around the "gold import" point while Japanese yen declined about five points.

Closing stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 8, 9 and 10.
